

61 years
service

After serving on the Carter Lecture Committee for 61 years, Mildred Neilson recently decided at age 93 that it was time to retire. The selectmen have voted her an honorary member of the committee, and on Monday, Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski presented her with a citation.

Pot luck supper

The Wilmington United Methodist Church will host an old fashioned pot luck supper. This is an opportunity to meet the folks of the Methodist Church as well as renew old acquaintances. The supper will be held in the Fellowship Hall of the Church Friday, Oct. 21 at 6 p.m.

If your name begins with A-P, plan to take a main dish (sufficient to feed your family and five more); those names Q-Z will take the desserts.

Following the meal, entertainment will be provided to amuse and delight those attending.

Those who plan to attend should call the Church office, 658-4519, or Gail Field, 658-2825 to reserve seating and to list the dish they plan to take. The Evangelism Committee will provide beverages and tableware for all. There is no cost to attend.

Officials wrestle with field house cost

Funds, $6.5 million or $7.205 million, for the proposed renovation and enlargement of Wilmington High school was the hot subject, Tuesday evening in a hearing before the Wilmington Finance Committee. Marvin Weiner, chairman of the Permanent Building Committee (PBC), testifying before the Finance Committee, said that the committee was in effect committed to the $6.5 million figure because this was the sum which the town could get approved by the State Building Assistance Board (SBAB). That would mean 50 percent reimbursement on costs, to the town, over a period of 20 years.

The argument for $7.205 million was led by Selectman Rocco DePasquale. The extra money would be used to have an expanded fieldhouse and gymnasium, in addition to the proposal of the PBC.

There was much testimony about the present building, and the proposed renovations. The architect, Douglas H. Flockhart, told the Finance Committee that the only part of the high school to which he was not proposing renovations was the Herbert C. Barrows Auditorium.

The PBC proposals would mean an expanded gymnasium, with room for two basketball courts, full size. There would be other facilities, locker rooms for girls, half indoor track, etc.

The proposals of Mr. DePasquale, which he intends to present as an amendment in the special town meeting of October 24, would double the proposed size of the gymnasium, and add other facilities. There would be room for a full indoor track and four full basketball courts.

Rocco told the fincom that he was there "to support the full package, with a double gymnasium which would provide, not only the school department with needed athletic facilities, but the population of Wilmington as well." It would give the school the needed space for athletic purposes, he said.

Walter Kaminski, member of the fincom, questioned sharply the proposal to make the addition to the fieldhouse. His questions brought the members of the school committee to speak.

John Brooks, school committee, answered Kaminski by saying that the committee could not come up with justification in terms of the state reimbursement, but "a lot of children do not get the full physical education they should be getting in Wilmington. We can provide the programs, but we cannot get reimbursement - we have gone the limit."

Frank Antonelli, business manager, told the fincom that the superintendent of schools and the assistant superintendent of schools would be visiting, in the next day or so, the office of SBAB and its director, John Collabro. It is hoped that there can be an expanded reimbursement, as a result of the town qualifying for more state funds.

Dan Ballou, chairman of the board of selectmen, told the fincom that the majority of the selectmen are in favor of spending the $7.2 million. The extra $700,000, he said, "is insignificant to the use we would get."

There was discussion of adding the second part of the gym at a later date. To this the architect said that this could not be done as inexpensively. "You get more of a free ride, by adding it at this time."

He had been told three times, at the SBAB office, he said, that the town cannot get more reimbursement.

To this DePasquale said "We have never had the basic minimum of a high school in Wilmington since 1951. We have been adding to the school, piece by piece, always with the plea that we cannot afford more."

"If this is built the girls will have, for once, a decent locker and washroom. I don't think that $705,000 will make much of a difference, and I feel that we can get more reimbursement. The City of Somerville gets a much higher reimbursement!"

John Brooks: "There are a lot of people in this town who could benefit from this expanded gym. I have talked with a lot of businessmen in this town in the past few weeks, people who own businesses in town but live elsewhere. They all say 'Go for it.'"

Another part of the discussion pertained to the number of "teaching stations" expected in the new building.

The architect had shown plans, how the science laboratories would all be in the Adams Street wing, of the expanded library, and the expanded home economics areas.

There would be eight rooms for business education, properly equipped. The present cafeteria and kitchen would be converted into a music room. The dining area, and new kitchen would be in back of the present high school.

It was this presentation that led some to expect that there would be a need for new teachers.

Bridget Zukas of the school committee told the fincom that the committee does not expect any such need.

John Brooks added that what the school needed was not more classrooms, but more specialty classrooms. The high school, he said, was teaching in rooms that were inadequate for the subject, and the proposal was to rectify this very point.

He expounded on the subject of science classrooms, which, he said, in the present high school are very inadequate. There would not be more teachers, or more pupils, but an opportunity for a better presentation to the pupils.

The high school discussion lasted one hour and 35 minutes.

The proposal to sell or lease land adjacent to Andover, and northerly of Route 125 occupies three articles, in the special town meeting. The finance committee took up all three articles at one time.

The land is a part of the watershed, of the water department. Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski said. The land was taken for taxes in 1955. The proposal is to rezone the land to Industrial Park, and then to sell or lease the land to Dynamics Research Corp. (DRC).

Chester Bruce, chairman of the conservation commission testified that there would be a "minimum" impact, insofar as his commission was concerned.

The town manager discussed water supplies for Wilmington and for North Reading. North Reading has a well next to the area, northerly of Route 125.

A hydrologist (water engineer, ed.) had been hired to study the area, TM Stapczynski said. There would be a minimal impact to the Wilmington water supply, and a minimum impact to the North Reading water supply.

Selectman Rocco DePasquale described the background, on how the proposal came to be made, and how the town is responding to a request from DRC to rent or purchase the land. The money to be realized, he said, would be used to erect a pumping station or a standpipe in North Wilmington. The situation, as he described it, was unique. "This is meeting all the needs of the town in one package."

Walter Kaminski of the fincom again had questions. It was his stand that the town should offer the land to anyone who wanted to purchase it. In that way the town could possibly get another $100,000, he pointed out.

Kaminski was answered by several persons. The principal point, brought out by Mr. DePasquale, was that it was DRC who had initiated the offer to purchase, and it would be wrong to try to sell to everyone else under the circumstances.

The land, Rocco said, is "landlocked." No one can get into it, because of the limited access to the highway (Route 125, ed.). There will have to be a road built in, from Andover Street, for this parcel of land.

Because of the fact that the North Reading well is so close, said DePasquale, the town of North Reading is very concerned, and DEQE (state Department of Quality Engineering) is much concerned. The present proposal can be approved, but to have another firm go in is to have more questions asked.

Paul Palermo of DRC showed plans of the land, and of the building that DRC hopes to build on it. The firm, he said, will consolidate five buildings into that one, and it will take about five years to do so. He said, too, the land was "landlocked."

Palermo did not know whether his firm was going to propose to rent the land for a 99 year lease, or purchase it from the town.

Mike Nicolosi, a construction engineer, represented Bernard Restuccia Jr. of Wilmington Ford on the proposal to rezone land along Main Street for General Business. The proposed rezoning would allow Restuccia to have an office and sales area, for a planned American Motors garage and salesroom.

Nicolosi, who was on crutches, assured the fincom that there would be a proper respect and restrictions in land that was adjacent to the neighborhood.

HOW GOOD IS YOUR BITE?

If your teeth do not rest comfortably on each other when your mouth is closed, your dentist may want to check your bite to see if it needs correcting. One method of doing this is to use ribbons or very fine strips of paper or film coated with special marking materials.

When he asks you to close your mouth he will check to see if your teeth hit evenly in the closed mouth position. Then, with the marking material placed in the upper and lower teeth, he may ask you to slide out your lower jaw in several directions. This is one way of checking to see if you have any high spots on the surface of some of your teeth when they come in contact. He will also check the lateral movements of your jaw as well as forward movements of the lower front teeth against your upper front teeth. An improperly aligned jaw would be the source of many headaches, earaches, neck, shoulder and back pain.

All of these movements help him to discover where certain teeth may need building up or reshaping so they will meet the opposing teeth properly. It also gives him other information he may need so your bite can be corrected before serious dental problems develop.

Town clock in good hands

How often do you look at the Wilmington town clock? Did you even realize that the clock on the steeple of the Congregational Church is the town clock?

Are you one of many people who long ago gave up on the clock's accuracy?

Two Wilmington brothers, twins Dave and Jim Roberts have undertaken the duty of keeping the town clock on time. Calling the clock's reputation a disappointment, they are planning to change the reputation by changing the time, when necessary.

"It's a shame to see such an attractive, typically New England sight as the church constantly broadcasting the wrong time," said Dave. "The clock is supposed to be a public aid, not a social irritant."

James, Dave's brother and partner in The Clockfolk of New England, went on to explain that, "as time changes, fall and spring, or in the event of power outages, the clock remains wrong — sometimes for weeks. Various mechanical problems often display the four faces at different times, rendering it completely worthless."

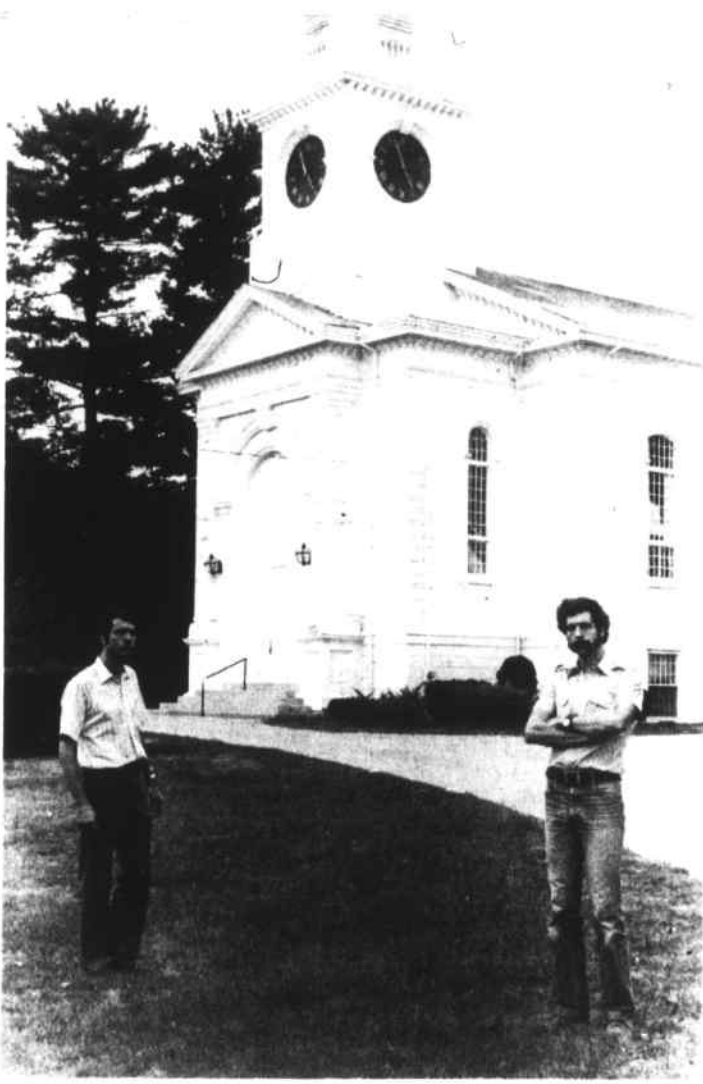

The town recently granted The Clockfolk of New England the duty of performing general service on the huge timepiece. As full-time certified master clockmakers, the Roberts feel confident as they speak of what the clock needs immediately, as well as its future needs.

"Everything is there to run well, but its not in the best of condition," say the clockmakers, who emphasize authenticity and originality wherever possible. The clock was removed and an electric one installed many years ago. The original works are not to be found.

The Roberts have been maintaining the Reading town clock since 1979. That clock was made by Seth Thomas Co. in 1912.

They both attended clockmaking school at the Bowman Technical School in Lancaster, Pennsylvania. Since then, they have built a business, restoring old clocks.

"Perhaps what the town needs is

Double time

The Wilmington town clock on the steeple of the Congregational Church now displays the accurate time on all four of its faces. Twin clockmakers Jim and Dave Roberts also have matching faces, except Dave has whiskers.

confidence that the clock is now accurate and is being treated with the consideration it deserves. It is the clock that is, ironically, used the most, shown the most, and cared for the least," said David.

Local artists to exhibit in Gloucester

Billie Fournaris of Oakridge Circle, and Andrea Peters of Ferguson Road, Wilmington, will be among 17 artists exhibiting their work at a show to be held by the Northeast Regional Artists, from Sunday, Oct. 16, through Saturday, Oct. 22, at the Northshore Art Association Building, 197 (R) E. Main Street, Gloucester.

Northeast Regional Artists, a new professional art association, will hold an opening reception for the exhibit on Oct. 16, from 1 to 5 p.m. Viewing hours for the remainder of the week will be from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily. The show will include works in a variety of media and styles, and all will express the theme, "New England, Inside and Out." The reception and exhibit are free and open to the public.

Mrs. Fournaris attended the New England School of Art, and has studied at the school of the Museum of Fine Arts. She has also studied with several well known professionals, including noted watercolorist Thadious Klodnicki, Boston painter and portraitist Robert Cormier, and artist and author Roger Curtis, with whom she continues to paint.

Mrs. Fournaris has won several awards in New Hampshire and Massachusetts, and has exhibited in many group and one-man shows. Her paintings have been purchased by D.F. Systems, Foxboro, and hang at Sweetheart Plastics, Wilmington and at the Hyannis Jewelry and Artisans Shop, Hyannis.

She is a member of several area art associations, including the Reading Art Association, Cape Cod Art Association, Yarmouth Guild of Artists, and is an associate member of the Northshore Art Association.

Mrs. Peters has attended the Vesper George School of Art and Massachusetts College of Art, and now studies with Roger Curtis and his Studio Group. Her paintings have been accepted in numerous juried regional and national exhibits, and have won many awards. She has also held several one-man shows.

Mrs. Peters is active in the local arts community, and is a member of several art associations, including Northshore Art Association, Reading Art Association, Tewksbury Art Guild, and the Yarmouth Art Association. She has served as an officer and board member in Tewksbury and Reading.

Northeast Regional Artists was recently organized to encourage and develop area painters and to provide cultural enrichment to the general public, according to association officials.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

Congratulations to Richard Dowd! - and perhaps his inspiration was Sonja Carlson's rhymes?

One Sunday morning a group of women got into cars and drove around the perimeter of Wilmington (the time was chosen to encounter the least traffic) and whether they had lived here all their lives, or since marriage, or moved recently, all were astonished at the growth of the industrial areas everywhere. (The general population has never been trained to turn at once to the legal notices in the Town Crier so they can attend hearings before decisions are made which will adversely affect their future lives.) Since then many, many more encoachments have been made.

It is one thing to welcome business and industry which is clean and quiet and well landscaped, but on the theory that it will cut taxes, all kind of air-water-land pollution have been introduced with a "People don't matter" attitude so strong that we have to wonder about the pockets of the decision makers.

In a town only three miles long there should be unity, not vying between north and south, but today men who voted the industry ruining one end are apologizing, while trying to introduce similar things in the other end; what the two ends and the middle have in constant common is the abominable traffic, as Mr. Dowd points out, as if it never occurred to the planners that direct access to 93-128 was vital before anything else; one can count vehicles into the thousands in "rush hour" passing on epoint. They are not just private cars, but giant trucks, and even hazardous cargoes. What was the lure besides lowering taxes? Jobs. Did you even follow those cars and see them go to 93 and 38 and 128? Relatively few turn into local driveways!

We have one of the best snow removal operations around; but I suspect that is serving those industries so their employees can get to work, the same as much more emergency equipment is needed because of dangerous chemicals, etc., than just a residential town would require. These services may offset the tax savings to individuals?

More people like Richard Dowd should THINK and SPEAK OUT.
Terri Putnam

Dear Larz:

As a voter in Precinct 3 and a resident of Wilmington, I was pleased to read last week's letter pertaining to the New Boston Street bridge and the meeting held in Arlington.

The support received from all branches of our town government officials and Rep. Michael Barrett who represents Precinct 3 should be noted. Mr. Barrett represented our cause and showed his concern by calling residents in the neighborhood relative to this problem.

It should also be noted that Henry Latta attended this meeting to support us. Mr. Latta is one of our devoted supporters. I regret the oversight.

Wilson J. Belbin
The Town Crier apologizes to Rep. Barrett for not taking note of his leading role in the opposition to the bridge. Apologies also to Henry Latta. —lfn

Vote to pay for buses for private school

The Tewksbury School Committee voted last Wednesday to pay the price for their decision to create a two bus private school route for 68 students of St. Augustine's in Andover.

Following a meeting with bus contractor Alvin French, the committee voted 3-2, with Chairman Tom Cooke and Sonja Cuneo opposed, to pay French's Blanchard Charter Service $45 a day per bus, or just under $16,000 for the year, more than what was in the private school bus contract awarded to him last spring.

Because of a committee vote, French had been doing the routes at no extra cost on a trial basis for the first two weeks of the school year.

The extra fee, which is retroactive, will cover French's costs for providing two buses that make a total of ten stops on two separate routes in town before whisking the children to Andover just in time for the 9 a.m. start of St. Augustine's school day. The buses reverse direction in the afternoon after picking up the students shortly after the school closes for the day at 3 p.m.

Most other schools serviced by a private school bus start and end their days between 30 to 45 minutes earlier than St. Augustine's.

The new routes were put in place after several St. Augustine's parents filed a complaint with the committee over a plan to use one bus at a central pickup and dropoff point at the St. William's School parking lot on Main Street. Under that plan, which would not have cost the committee any extra fee, parents would have had to bring their children to St. William's in the morning and pick them up there in the afternoon.

Parents claimed that plan would place a burden on them because there are a lot of working couples who would not be able to easily transport their children to and from the St. William's School. A few parents also complained that the distance from their homes to either St. Augustine's or St. William's was roughly the same and because the bus route was voted, they would be losing a private school transportation reimbursement check from the school committee.

The additional routes do not increase the 11 bus private school fleet because buses that are finishing their primary routes double back in to town to do the St. Augustine's routes.

Because of the two routes, Assistant Superintendent for Business John Ryan told the committee, Blanchard is exceeding the total amount of miles allowed under the contract. That contract stipulates that the total mileage travelled by all private school buses should not exceed 605. If that limit is exceeded the contract calls for the committee to pay Blanchard $1 a mile for every mile over 605.

Ryan said the two St. Augustine's routes puts the committee over that limit by 50 miles.

French must also pay two bus drivers two extra hours pay each at the rate of $7.37 an hour.

"He's (French) is in line by contract for an adjustment," Ryan told the committee.

Although some committee members tried to explore any other alternatives to paying the extra fee, French said, "If you want to bus them down there, it's going to cost."

"We're in the situation now where we're going to have to either eliminate it or pay for it," said Committeeman Louis Carciofi. He said, however, that eliminating the service would see the parents back before the committee.

Cuneo, however, disagreed. She said the program was costing too much already and asked her fellow committee members "whether we're going in the business of transportation or the business of education." She added that the private school transportation account, which has been the root of controversy in town for the past few years, is getting to expensive.

"It's getting to expensive and we have to make too many sacrifices" from the public budget to provide it, Cuneo said.

She also said the private school busing system has tied up administrators for many hours when they could have been handling public school business.

"Obviously, Mr. French is in a leverage position," said Cooke.

Cooke asked French if he'd be willing to drop a gas escalation clause in the bus contract in return for the extra fees. The committee set aside about $6000 to cover any unexpected large increases in the price for gasoline. If the gas price goes up more than five percent over the life of the contract, French is entitled to an adjustment to cover that cost.

French was unwilling to drop the clause and maintained, "If you want these buses, pay me. If you don't, then don't run them."

In casting her vote in favor of the extra fee, Committee member Carol Wareing said French should be entitled to recoup the costs incurred to him by a decision of the committee. She said French "is a businessman, not a charitable organization."

Pay raises voted for superintendent, assistants

by Jim Brown
Tewksbury Editor

After indicating he may not vote on his own motion, Tewksbury School Committee Chairman Tom Cooke broke a 2-2 deadlock last Wednesday by casting the deciding tally that brought Supt. of Schools John Wynn a $2036 a year raise in pay. The raise, only the second he has gotten over the last four years, boosts his salary from $41,464 a year to $43,500.

Cooke cast the deciding tally after a flurry of different amounts, ranging from $800 to $3536, were turned down by the committee. Cooke stepped down from the chair in order to make his motion and Vice Chairman Louis Carciofi called for the vote.

With Carciofi and Carol Wareing voting against the $2036 raise and Jim Sullivan and Sonja Cuneo voting for it, Cooke announced he may not vote on the motion. But, after noting that "we have a deadlock here," he cast the deciding tally.

Also getting raises of $2393 last Wednesday were Assistant Supt. for Business John Ryan and Assistant Supt. for Curriculum Dr. Edward Farley. The slightly over six percent raise increases the salary of both assistant supts. from $39,107 a year to $41,500.

The raises were handed out only after the committee decided to maintain the past practice of allowing each member to individually assess the administrator's job performance - referred to as "merit" - from the previous year rather than create a more formal evaluation procedure that night.

The committee, some time ago, voted to base future central office administration raises on a formal job performance evaluation procedure. But, even though numerous agendas were adorned with an item calling for discussion that would lead to setting up such a procedure, the committee has yet to act on it.

And without a procedure in place, Wynn said he felt it would be unfair for the committee to devise an evaluation procedure that night and apply it for judging job performance in a period when no procedure was in place. Instead, he asked that the committee give the central office administration the same consideration given to other personnel recently granted raises.

Summarizing what she said was her interpretation of Wynn's comments, Committee member Carol Wareing said, "He doesn't want a subjective evaluation of merit without having an instrument in place."

Committee members agreed that the task of creating an evaluation procedure would be very time consuming and that there wasn't enough time to discuss it fully last Wednesday. "It's something the committee has never tackled," said Committeeman Jim Sullivan.

The committee once again voted to table discussion of setting up formal evaluation procedures.

In defending his $3536 a year raise request, Wynn explained the roughly 8.5 percent hike would bring him into line with what other superintendents in comparable communities are receiving. After conducting a survey of the salaries of other superintendents, Wynn said, "I can say I'm the lowest paid superintendent in the area."

He also said that the request was made to make up for raises he did not receive in two of the previous three years. Wynn got one $1280 raise over the last three years, leaving him with a roughly 3.2 percent increase over that time period. Inflation, he said, had run into double figures for two of those years.

Rating his own job performance, Wynn expounded on his efforts to help the system make a "smooth transition" during the first two years of Proposition 2½ with a minimum of disruption in programs, his handling of reduction in staff problems, his efforts to give all students "computer instruction at some time in their public school careers," and his work to upgrade the high school by assisting the building committee during construction of the high school addition.

He also pointed out that the Author Andersen Company's Service Improvement report "gave this office very high grades."

Wynn also said he takes an active role in preparing school budgets, works well with his assistants and uses his membership in the superintendent's association to "reach out beyond the Tewksbury system" in order to maintain a feeling for what other educators are doing.

"I know how hard I work. I know the hours I put in. I know the aggravation I receive. And I know the phone calls I get at home," Wynn said.

First to respond to Wynn's presentation was Committeeman Louis Carciofi.

After hearing the list of communities Wynn selected for comparing superintendent's salaries, Carciofi questioned whether those systems were comparable to Tewksbury in number of students, staff and buildings. He questioned if Wynn was "taking enough into consideration" when selecting the communities comparable to Tewksbury.

Carciofi also opposed Wynn's effort to regain raises lost in other years. "You're looking for a second bite of the apple," he told Wynn before adding, "The superintendent is looking for salary increases he has already been denied."

"I'm looking to correct what I feel is an inequity," Wynn said.

Wareing asked Wynn several questions concerning his management techniques and decision making process before going on to ask, "Do you feel, in your honest judgment, that you cooperate with this committee?"

"I think we went through a period where relations were not good," Wynn answered and added that he feels he does cooperate and that relations had improved.

Wynn's statement that he "agonizes" over every decision he has to make prompted Wareing to ask whether he considers "political ramifications" or the interests of educating students when making decisions and recommendations.

He answered that his recommendations are made based on what he feels is best for the schools and what is morally right.

"I know some people think I'm a very political person. I would say I'm practically asexual when it comes to politics," Wynn answered.

"I get a lot of credit for getting involved in politics. A lot more credit than I think I deserve," he added.

Chairman Tom Cooke asked Wynn how he handles his staff, whether he gets involved in making decisions within individual schools, and whether he evaluates each of the systems's schools on a first hand basis.

Wynn said that he feels he builds better rapport with principals by allowing them to run their own schools. But, he added that he will make recommendations to principals on certain matters. He also said he'd like to get to each school more often.

Through questioning, Cooke found out that Wynn discovers new educational trends and other data by attending superintendent association meetings. However, Cooke told Wynn that very little of that information is passed on to the committee. "Maybe you should share some of that knowledge with the committee," he told Wynn.

Cooke also said that Wynn's base salary is boosted by a $1200 a year tax sheltered annuity a previous committee voted to give him. "I still consider it part of your salary," he told Wynn.

And Cooke, in response to Wynn's earlier statement concerning inflation, said that the recent tax cuts over three years also added to Wynn's salary. "You mention inflation. I'm going to mention the tax cut," he said.

"How do you think I got by without a raise, Tom?" Wynn asked in a joking manner.

Wynn did get some words of praise during the meeting from both Jim Sullivan and Sonja Cuneo.

Sullivan said he has been watching Wynn in action since 1971 and that he felt Wynn's "relationship and cooperation with the committee has improved tremendously" over the last few years. He also praised Wynn for the way he has handled the staff over the years and said that over the past few years Wynn has taken on duties over and above his normal ones.

However, Sullivan added, "We don't discuss much education around this table" and said that he would like to see Wynn initiate more of it. He also asked Wynn, as he had for some years, to make more visits to the schools.

"You're an asset to this community," Cuneo told Wynn. "I'm proud my children are in the school system under your direction," she added.

"Based on the operation I've seen in this office over the past couple of years, you are entitled to a raise, based on merit," Sullivan said.

In order to bring it to a vote, Sullivan motioned for the $45,000 salary Wynn was seeking. But, the motion died in a 2-2 deadlock with Cooke not voting. Sullivan later moved for a $44,000 salary, a $2536 raise. That also failed to draw support.

"Based on the performance I've seen in the past year, I don't believe the superintendent is entitled to a raise," Carciofi said. "It seems the superintendent has taken the attitude, 'I'm going to fight the school committee no matter what,' " he added just before offering an $800 raise and an "olive branch" to Wynn.

"I think there has been some improvement," Wareing said before offering and $1800 pay increase. Her motion also died in a deadlock at 2-2 with Cooke not voting.

Things moved a little quicker when the committee reviewed the performance of Ryan and Farley. They received their raises on identical 4-0 tallies with Cooke not voting.

Saying his major tasks include overseeing the educational programs in school, supervising personnel and coordinating staff, Farley said he is "not interested" in what other assistant superintendents make. He added, however, "I feel I'm at least as good as or better than others in the valley."

Pointing to his accomplishments over the last year, Farley said he oversaw the move of the ninth grade to the high school and kept the committee up to date on the addition of computer courses in the system and a television course at the high school.

The committee gave Farley high marks for his performance last year with Carciofi saying that he has "yet to find his (Farley's) information inaccurate." Wareing said Farley has always been cooperative with the committee and said, "I agree. We're not always easy to deal with."

There were also high marks for Ryan's performance last year.

Saying he has never sought more of a raise than what the superintendent had recommended, Ryan deferred a recap of his accomplishments and told the committee he would field any questions.

"I think that we all have a good idea of what John does and many times he goes beyond his job description," Carciofi remarked.

Sullivan said that Ryan has received praise from across the state and added that his fine reputation could land him a superintendent's job, if he wanted it, in other communities.

"Your overworked and underpaid," said Wareing before adding, "If circumstances were different it (raise) would be higher."

Wiberg's growth hobby heading for the 'big time'

Hugh Wiberg is a man who has made his way to fame on a big orange blob.

No, Hugh is not into science fiction. He is a backyard gardener, par excellence. In the past 22 years, he has developed an exceptionally green thumb, not to mention a large orange fruit. Along the way, he has also built a reputation as a gardening expert.

Hugh published a book on backyard gardening, one which went through three printings, and has begun work on his second book. He does a regular weekly spot on the Dave Maynard Show on WBZ radio, and occasionally does a question and answer show as well.

Most of Hugh's gardening is quite serious. He really enjoys fresh vegetables, and produces a fine crop each year. But there is one thing he grows for fun — the squmpkin.

Hugh blames the squmpkin on a frivolous bumblebee. One year, he was growing Big Max pumpkins and giant Hungarian squash. Somehow, they cross-pollinated, and voila! The squmpkin!

Since then, the squmpkin has become one of Wiberg's favorite hobbies. Hugh now spends his winter evenings sitting in front of the wood stove, putting squmpkin seeds in envelopes, mailing them all over the country.

Squmpkins grow larger than pumpkins, and have created a stir in pumpkin growing competition. Hugh says that the best rule is, "If it's orange, it's a pumpkin." Sometimes, though, the squash ancestry shows through and the squmpkin grows into a green giant.

Enough other people grow squmpkins and pumpkins that there is now a world championship pumpkin contest.

The 1983 Wiberg squmpkin was harvested recently, tipping the scales at 425½ pounds, much larger than any Hugh had grown previously. Hugh's one concern is that the wail is of unknown parentage. He received two seeds from a man in Ohio, which he planted along with those he had harvested from last year's crop. He is not sure which plant produced the big one this year.

Anyway, the squmpkin has begun its fall tour. It will be on display this weekend at the Topsfield Fair, after which it's off to Buffalo, N.Y. for the World Pumpkin Championships.

The squmpkin makes its annual Wilmington appearance at the Horribles Parade on Halloween Eve. Carved into a jack o' lantern, the squmpkin sits on a table in the tennis court, as hundreds of youngsters parade by in costume.

Sqump pump

Tom Pazyra uses a bicycle tire pump to jokingly demonstrate the Wiberg secret — what makes the squmpkins grow so big. The 425½ pound monster is on the right. The one at left weighed 169 pounds.

Moment of truth

With the squmpkin on the scale, Hugh Wiberg looks at the balance. The weight of this year's monster was 425½ pounds.

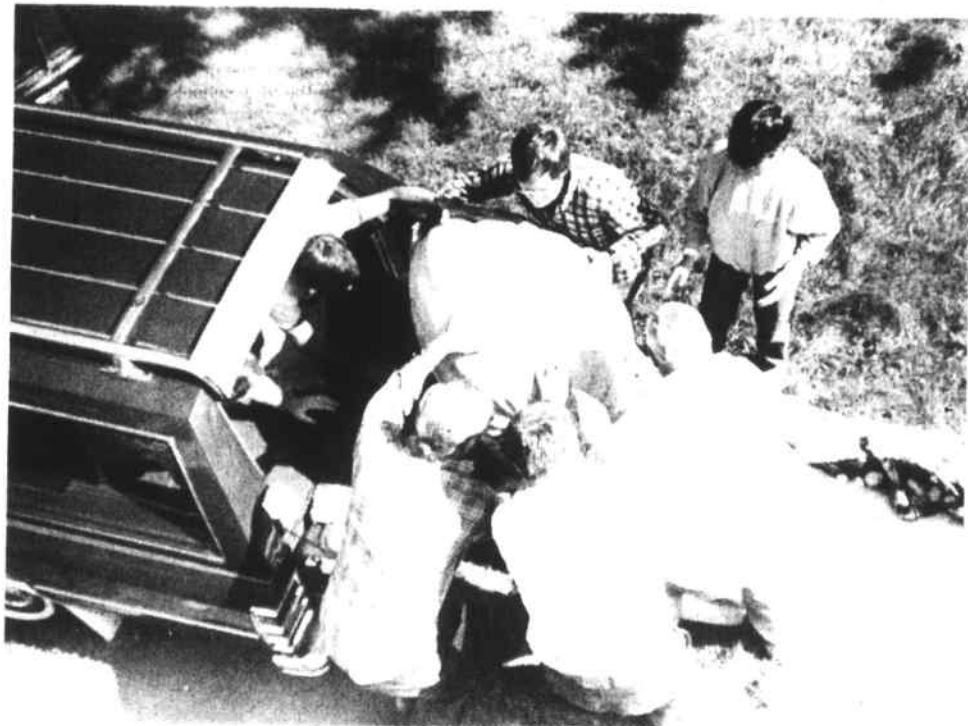

Hugh's harvest

Hugh cuts the stem of the squmpkin, ending its growing season.

Will it fit?

Loading a squmpkin into a car for the trip to the Wilmington Grain and Building Materials scales is no easy job. This year Hugh held a "squmpkin party", attracting enough help to make the job reasonably easy.

On January 1, your phone won't turn into a monster.

If you're like most people, you've heard that the Bell System is breaking up. And that, after January 1, 1984, you'll have to look to separate sources for local phone service, long-distance phone service, and equipment.

If you're like most people, you're concerned that this will turn your phone service into a monster.

It won't. New England Telephone will still be your local phone company. We'll still provide you with the same good service New Englanders have counted on for the last 100 years.

Divestiture will mean some changes. For individuals, for business—and for the future.

We think most of the changes will be for the better. And, as they happen, we'll tell you about them. Because the more you know about change, the easier it is to handle.

Some things won't change. New England Telephone will still provide local phone service. All you have to do is pick up the phone and call. The way you always have.

You've probably heard that the cost of local calling will increase after divestiture. That's because long-distance changes will no longer pay part of the cost of local service. However, the cost of long-distance calling may be reduced. And New England Telephone also offers options—like Measured Service or Unlimited Service—to help you control the cost of local service.

Some things will change.

Among the things that are changing are the ways you obtain equipment and repairs.

New England Telephone will no longer provide home telephone equipment. If you want to buy phones, you can buy them from any number of suppliers. So shop around. Compare prices, features, and service warranties to get the best buys for your money.

If you prefer to lease your phones, simply keep the ones we've provided. But after January 1, you'll automatically be leasing them from AT&T.

Whoever supplies your phones will be responsible for their repair. Of course, New England Telephone will continue to maintain and repair your phone lines.

A short course on long-distance options.

After the break-up, New England Telephone will continue to provide you with long-distance service within your area code. And we'll give you access to long-distance service outside your area code. So you can still make and receive long-distance calls.

Your current long-distance service will continue after January 1.

However, if you want to choose a new long-distance company, check your Yellow Pages for a complete listing. Then compare rates and services and make your choice.

What lies ahead?

New England Telephone's been in the forefront of changes in telephone service and technology for the last 100 years. And that's just where we intend to stay.

We're managing today's changes, and we'll continue to offer you new options, all geared to making your phone service the best it can be.

There's been a lot of noise about the Bell System breaking up, but just remember New England Telephone's got it all together.

If you have any questions about the ways these changes will affect you, call our special, toll-free "Let's Talk" number. It's 1-800-555-5000, Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Arts Lottery funds distributed

The Wilmington Council for the Arts has announced that grants will be distributed to four local individuals and organizations as a result of the July 1983 statewide grant distribution program of the Massachusetts Arts Lottery.

Council Chairman Adele Passmore said the following applications approved by the Wilmington Council have been certified by the Mass. Arts Lottery Council at the State House in Boston.

Scholarships have been approved for Thomas J. DeLetter and Michael Manni, both graduates of Wilmington High School and presently enrolled in schools or colleges for the study of art; Patricia Hallisey, art director for the Wilmington Public Schools, is to receive funds for suitable display screens for the presentation of both school and community artwork; Celia Bartolotti, president of the Silver Lake Spotlighters, will receive a grant on behalf of the Spotlighters for purchase of costumes and equipment.

In making the announcement Mrs. Passmore said that the current grant total is nearly four times the amount received in the first distribution in July 1982. This is due to the tremendous success of the Magabucks Lottery Game for the arts and has encouraged all who care about the cultural life of our community. With these funds creative people in Wilmington, artists, writers, musicians, dancers, etc. will receive the support they need to continue their artistic contribution.

The next distribution of Arts Lottery funds will be in January 1984. Word has been received that Wilmington's share of this money will be $2439.00. Individuals as well as organizations are encouraged to obtain applications at the Town Hall or Memorial Library. For further information call 658-5231.

The deadline for all applications for the January funding cycle is 4:30 p.m. Thursday, October 13. Please, submit all applications to the Wilmington Council for the Arts in care of the Town Hall, Middlesex Ave., Wilmington, MA 01887.

Wildcats send Lions crashing

Wilmington High School's defending MVC champion field hockey girls rose to the challenge again Monday afternoon in a key contest, handing the Chelmsford Lions their first defeat of the season with a 3-0 setback.

The Lions had not allowed a shot on goal in their last two games before coach Jan Cassidy's team took off behind the scoring of Kathleen Robinson (two goals) and Kristen Butt. Judy Seville and Butt had the Wilmington assists.

The Wilmington defense was again solid in front of goalie Jamie Vitale.

In other MVC action Monday afternoon, senior Bev Luken scored the lone TMHS goal and netminder Vicki Westover held off Dracut for a 1-1 tie.

Hoop clinic Monday

Tewksbury varsity basketball coach Bob Melillo has released the format for the Monday night, Oct. 10 basketball clinic that is open to all Tewksbury residents both male and female starting at 6:55 at the new Tewksbury Memorial High School gymnasium.

Brian Hammel, the head coach of Bentley College will speak first on shooting skills starting at 7 p.m. Coach Hammel (the leading scorer in Bentley history with 1767 points), is one of the finest hoop clinicians in New England, and should not be missed. In 1975 he was the third round draft choice of the Milwaukee Bucks. His record at Bentley is 73-61 losses.

Rich Melillo, the head basketball coach at his alma mater, Fitchburg State College, will lead a rebounding drill at 7:30. Coach Melillo, in his third year at the Fitchburg helm, is the third leading scorer in Fitchburg State history and a former captain. He has also served as an assistant coach at Notre Dame of Fitchburg.

Tufts' coach Rod Baker will demonstrate ball handling skills starting at 8:00. Coach Baker, a 1974 graduate of Holy Cross, where he

Tewksbury basketball deserves better

Monday night, October 10 there is a first class basketball clinic scheduled for the relatively new Tewksbury Memorial High School gymnasium. Unfortunately, unless there is a mad dash to improve in four days a disappointing situation that has lingered on for six months, the instructors from top eastern colleges, along with the players and adults attending the session, will be very disappointed with the town's 'new' basketball home.

To put it mildly, the place just does not look and feel the way a new building should look and feel. Not only do Tewksbury's basketball people deserve something better at this stage, but the volleyball teams, gym classes and the townspeople who will be using the building at night as well.

Five to six months is plenty of time to work the kinks out of any new building. At this point there is no real reason why Tewksbury should be faced with a puddle of water on the floor, cracks along seams of the floor, various bubbles, busted exit signs, two scoreboards with enough lights out to make even turning them on useless, electrical conduits placed so near to the playing surface that they are an obstacle and a composition playing surface that makes anyone without a new pair of sneakers a candidate for the ice Capades.

The floor is slippery. The place has the look of a building that is years older. There are simply no excuses short of excessive abuse, lack of maintenance or flaws in the original structure. Whatever the problems are, the school department should begin digging down and working to correct them.

Tewksbury varsity basketball coach Bob Melillo is geared up for Monday's clinic and the upcoming season, his second in Tewksbury. Unfortunately for Tewksbury, a coach with a class act and a genuine desire to put a tattered program back together is becoming more than a bit frustrated with the condition of the gymnasium.

The gym's floor was somewhat slippery from the beginning, but shortly after the building was finished last spring, someone decided to apply a hardwood polish to the composition surface. When that was corrected and the application stripped off the surface, the floor was worse.

Now the school committee is considering purchasing equipment at the cost of approximately $6,000 to work on cleaning the floor and applying the proper chemicals to take some of the slickness off the composition surface.

Melillo says that he has been trying to get someone to deal with what he thinks is a new facility not up to par for months.

After spending his first season playing all his home games on the road, the coach naturally fears that any further delays in correcting the problems will force Merrimack Valley Conference officials to move the Tewksbury home games elsewhere if they feel that the conditions are unsafe.

The TMHS coach says that he has discussed the situation with selectmen and members of the school and building committees. He first began mentioning what he thought of the building as far back as last April. One can not blame Melillo. The guy has legitimate reason for concern, for anyone who has ever played the sport of basketball knows that this place is just not up to snuff.

Melillo, who came from a top notch and successful program at St. Clement's, is willing to work in order to give the town a total basketball program that it can be proud of. Being outside of the school system and with no in-town political ties, his job can be difficult and often times frustrating. This problem will get more frustrating for the coach and his athletes if something isn't done shortly.

"I'm here to build a program," offered the TMHS coach. "At least give us a decent facility to play in. It's not a good facility as it is now." A fair statement, coach.

"The kids and people have been great. Everything else has been very positive," says Melillo, who despite this nagging problem, a two win season a year ago and no Leo Parent in sight, remains optimistic and concerned enough to try to get this situation resolved.

A run for Luke

The First Annual Luke Byrne Memorial Road Race is set for Sunday, October 30 with a 10:30 a.m. (9:30 reporting time) starting time from the Northmeadow Tennis Club.

The run is being sponsored by the Northmeadow Tennis Club, with Joe Aubut Jr. the director of the race. The 6.2 mile race has a $5.00 pre-entry and $6.00 post entry fee, with checks payable to the 'Luke Byrne Memorial Fund,' care of Joseph Aubut Jr., P.O. Box 235, Tewksbury, Mass 01876.

First prizes include a one year membership to Northmeadow and a season pass to the Highland Ski Resort. There will be t-shirts for the first 200 preregistered runners, free beer and soda for all the runners and trophies for the first place finishers in each division. Northmeadow will also award one day pass to each runner. Teams of three runners per team can also be entered.

The most important point is that the run is a means of remembering Luke Byrne, a former night manager at Northmeadow and a Tewksbury reserve police officer who was tragically killed in 1981.

For additional information regarding the race, call 851-2031.

'Administrative error' disappoints Youth Soccer youngsters

by Rick Cooke
Sports Editor

What was termed an 'administrative error' by adults on the Tewksbury Youth Soccer Board of Directors has resulted in disappointment to six youngsters who were 'cut' from a travelling B' team just days after being told that they had made the squad.

The Tewksbury Recreation Commission met Monday night with upset parents, concerned coaches, Youth Soccer Director Ed Flanagan and soccer board members who admitted that holding a second set of tryouts after a change in A' and B' team coaches had been a mistake.

The problem arose after the first scheduled A' and B' team tryout for under-12 year old players September 13, when A' team coach Steve Levine decided that he could not handle both his youth league duties and his job as varsity high school coach and resigned from the youth post.

Levine then left his suggestions on who he and assistant Jim Culbertson thought were the better players with B' team coach Sal Frasca, who was to now assume both the A' and B' team coaching duties.

At the tryout date of September 20 that concluded the 'first' set of tryouts, Frasca was told by youth league officials that he was to select the boys who would make both the A' and the B' teams.

Subsequently, Frasca resigned the B' team position, leaving the club that he had already selected without a coach.

On to the scene came Dennis Hogan, a willing and experienced volunteer, to coach the B' boys. But, somewhere along the line it was decided by Flanagan and the board that a 'second' set of tryouts should be held for the new coach. Here is where the problem began and the 'mistake' was made.

After the first set of tryouts, the youngsters were told on the field who had made the team. Then when it was decided that a second set of tryouts were to be held, the youngsters were called back, showcased in drills and told that after the 'second' tryouts of October 1 and 2 that they would be notified by mail or telephone just who had made the team.

The question here is, why was a second set of tryouts required in the first place? There was no logical reason why a second set of tryouts was held, and when six youngsters, including nine-year-old Gary Walsh, were notified shortly after the 'second' tryout that after 'making' the team on their first try they had failed on their 'second' attempt, quite naturally the disappointment was intense.

"He (Gary) is so hurt over this," offered Mrs. Judy Walsh, who appeared at the commission meeting Monday night with her husband John and several other parents whose youngsters were affected by the situation.

Mrs. Walsh, along with another parent Monday night, emphasized that she didn't attend the meeting to get her son back on the B' team. Gary, along with the five other youngsters involved, will play in the valuable Intramural League program after it was decided by the majority in attendance Monday that to reverse the decision for a third time would not be a good idea.

"The bottom line is that once a decision is made on selecting kids, that decision is final," said Mrs. Walsh. "Something like this has never been done before in this town. I'm just here to make sure that it doesn't happen again."

The Recreation Commission apparently agreed with her, instructing Flanagan to appear at the next commission meeting with a firm set of guidelines regarding Tewksbury Youth Soccer League tryouts. Rather incredibly, the six-year-old league has no guidelines set on how tryouts should be handled.

At the outset of the meeting, it was suggested by Recreation Commission Vice Chairman Mike Whelton that perhaps youth soccer could field a second B' team for this year only in an attempt to smooth over the situation.

"I'm sure that we could field another B' team that would be just as good," offered Flanagan. The parents and the soccer board eventually rejected this plan, saying the youngsters who were dropped after the 'second' tryout would feel that they were 'second' best.

"What's gone by is done, it is a mistake that can't be rectified," said Whelton, who later termed the matter an 'administrative error.' "I think that it was a mistake rather than something that was predetermined."

New B' team coach Hogan appeared to be the man caught in the middle. "Even with a second B' team, you would still have kids who won't make it," said Hogan. "It's terrible the things that have been done, but they weren't done intentionally."

Hogan, in a letter sent to the B' boys who were rejected after making the team, said: "Try, if you can, to forgive some adults who don't think of how a group of little boys could be hurt in this whole deal." Young Gary Walsh was dismissed from school in tears Monday morning after receiving Hogan's sincere apology.

Hogan explained that when the decision was made to hold the second set of tryouts, a group made up of himself, Andy Scharmer, travelling team director Ian Atherton, Flanagan and two friends of Hogan's with soccer experience watched the boys at the tryouts, with Hogan making his recommendations.

"I volunteered in the interest of trying to save the situation. I got some help from knowledgeable soccer people from out of town who aren't involved in the politics," said Hogan.

While Hogan, Flanagan and members of the board attempted to explain the situation, at least one coach and several parents became upset, with one coach saying that this was his last year with the program anyway, saying he had 'had it' before leaving the meeting.

Whelton was more interested in solutions, than name calling and your style

Show your car you care.

Unfortunately, worn brakes don't always announce themselves. They just sort of creep up on you.

Oh, sure, your brakes may squeak, or pull or grab. But mostly they wear out so gradually you don't realize anything is wrong.

But, by having your mechanic regularly check your brakes twice a year, you can help keep them from letting you get too far.

Same goes for the rest of your car. It needs you to keep it up, so it won't let you down. And this is what regular car care is all about.

Redmen battle back, tie Warriors, 2-2

The TMHS varsity soccer team came through the past week with a win and a tie, thus securing fourth place in the MVC race, two points out of second spot. The Redmen travelled to Chelmsford Wednesday and defeated the Lions, 2-0. Saturday the Redmen came from behind twice to tie Andover, 2-2.

The next four games include a game against Lowell Tuesday, Oct. 4, a contest with Wilmington at the North Intermediate School on Thursday, Oct. 6, a game at Lawrence on Brucato Field behind the Veteran's Stadium at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 8, and on Monday morning, Columbus Day, a 10:30 game with undefeated Methuen at Tewksbury Junior High School. Wednesday, Oct. 12 the Redmen travel to Greater Lawrence Regional (off River Road, exit on Route 93) for a 3:30 p.m. contest.

Redmen 2 Chelmsford 0

The Redmen used this game to continue to improve on their new ball control style of soccer, as they began to play the game the way it was meant to be played. Passes using the entire field were evident on the part of Tewksbury in this game, as all three periods were controlled by the Redmen.

Although the Redmen were outshooting their opponents, the quality of shots left a little to be desired, resulting in only a 1-0 Redmen lead at the end of two quarters.

Marc Masone, a sophomore forward, scored the first goal when he used his head to direct a Billy Deppe corner kick into the net during period two. Nario Simao would score his fourth goal in two games in period three when he directed co-captain Pat Sands' long crossing pass by the Lions' netminder. Chelmsford controlled the fourth period but was denied on several golden scoring opportunities by goalkeeper Ricky Heartquist, who was called upon to make four superb saves. Pat Sands, Billy Deppe, and Kenny Krugh along with Dave Flanagan and Scott Thornton, were all dominating in this key win for the Redmen.

The junior varsity fell quickly behind, and could never catch up although controlling most of the play during the second half, as they lost, 4-1 to the undefeated Lion JV's. Kyle Favreau scored the only goal for the Redmen, while Todd Simas played an excellent all-around game.

Redmen 2 Andover 2

Playing one of the finest games ever played in Tewksbury's short history, the Redmen came from behind twice to tie the Golden Warriors at Andover, 2-2. Tewksbury demonstrated a patient brand of soccer, combining excellent team passing all over the field with 23 shots. The movement of the ball kept Andover off balance most of the game and allowed Tewksbury numerous opportunities to break the contest wide open.

The ability to bounce back twice is a tribute to this year's co-captains, Pat Sands and Dana Tower, along with team manager Paul Mahoney, all of whom have been able to radiate a great sense of spirit among the squad's younger players.

The hustling play of seniors Tim Kelly and Peter Vultaggio, along with the great defense exhibited by Sands, senior Billy Deppe, junior Kenny Krugh, and senior Mark Stemmler, all were key reasons why Tewksbury played with an obvious air of confidence, desire and intensity.

Midfielders Dave Flanagan and Scott Thornton, both juniors, along with Dana Tower, all played an intelligent and hustling type of game that allowed the Redmen to generate quick counter attacks and good finishing opportunities.

The game was marred by an unfortunate collision between Tewksbury's excellent sophomore goalkeeper, Ricky Heartquist, and an Andover forward. Heartquist will not be able to play in goal for the remainder of the season (unless the Redmen make the State Tournament) due to a gross dislocation and break of the third and fourth fingers of his left hand. The injury came moments after the Redmen had tied the game with three minutes to go in period three.

Sophomore goalkeeper Jonathan McLeod stepped in to play his first varsity game in net, and although nervous, allowed no goals on seven Andover shots during the remainder of the game to preserve the tie.

Andover scored both its goals in period two. Their first goal came as Heartquist, while catching a ball off a cross in midair, dropped the ball when he was run into by an Andover forward attempting to head the ball. The ball when dropped backspin into the net. Tewksbury tied the game a few minutes later on a perfectly executed direct kick from 30 yards out by Mark Stemmler.

Andover assumed the lead when the Tewksbury wing fullback committed unnecessarily at the Andover wing, controlling the ball in the corner to the left of the goalkeeper.

Tewksbury, after excellent controlled passing, tied the game when midfielder Dave Flanagan blasted a shot off the Andover goalkeeper and Redmen forward Nario Simao easily converted the rebound. The goal was Simao's fifth in three games.

Andover controlled the last two minutes of the game, but the tough Tewksbury defense came through in protecting their goalkeeper and preserved the tie.

Tewksbury Pop Warner

Tewksbury teams hammer Dracut

Dracut Pop Warner ran into tough going last Sunday, as the three Tewksbury traveling squads notched strong wins at Ballou-DelRossi Field.

In the first game of the day, the Tewksbury C team Chiefs continued to impress, as they logged another high scoring win, 26-0 over their Dracut rivals.

On the Chiefs' opening drive, they marched 60 yards to paydirt behind the second effort running of Rob Lombardi, Dave Boudreau, Kevin Ward and Eric Lien, with Lombardi capping the drive with a seven yard touchdown blast. Tewksbury elected to run the extra point, with Lombardi going in for the point and the 7-0 lead.

Late in the first period the Chiefs went on the march again, as they rolled 45 yards on runs by Ward, Lombardi, Lien and Keith Sullivan, with quarterback Dave Boudreau banging in from the one yard line for a 13-0 lead, as the PAT try was unsuccessful.

In the second quarter the Chiefs' defense recovered a fumble on a punt at the Dracut 38 yard line. A 23 yard pass from Boudreau to Jimmy McLean put the ball on the Dracut five, where Boudreau dove into the endzone for the score. Kevin Ward then got the call to run the PAT and banged in for the point and a 20-0 lead.

Late in the third period Keith DeSisto sacked the Dracut quarterback at the Dracut 25 yard line as he was attempting to pass on fourth down. The Chiefs wasted no time capitalizing, as Lombardi, Sullivan, Boudreau and Ward all ripped off big yardage, with Ward taking it in from two yards out for the final of 26-0.

As the game ended, the Blue offense was on the move for the Chiefs, as fine runs by Steve LaValle, Jamie Flynn, Derek Weitz and Brian Cooper put the ball deep in Dracut territory.

Defensive standouts for the Chiefs were Dave Perry, Keith DeSisto, LaValle, Eric Lien, Patrick Teague and Todd Bairstow.

The offense was helped by Glenn Harris, Jimmy McLean, Dave Boudreau, Kevin Ward, Keith Sullivan and Brian Brooks. Other standouts who opened holes all day for the backs were Dave Babine, Joey Bilinski, Keith DeSisto and Bobby Marshall.

The Tewksbury B squad kept their slate clean with a 22-0 whitewash of their Dracut counterparts. After a scoreless first period, the B crew got a break, as defensive back Jimmy Simas picked off a Dracut aerial at the Steelers' 40 yard line and returned it to the visitors five yard stripe. On the next play Scott DeVivo punched in for the six points and Simas booted a perfect kick on the PAT for an 8-0 Tewksbury lead. This was all the scoring in the first half, as both teams jockeyed for field position.

In the third period, the junior Redmen struck fast on a five yard pass from quarterback Jay Rideout to Tommy Burns, who legged it another 60 yards through the Dracut defense for the score. Simas again split the uprights to make it 16-0 Tewksbury.

Tewksbury added another score in the third stanza when Jimmy Anzivino raced 65 yards to cap the 22-0 win.

The entire defensive unit played an outstanding game, limiting Dracut to one first down. This was accomplished by the efforts of Doug Welton, who blocked a key punt, Jimmy Simas, whose interception got things rolling, and Tommy Aylward and Brian Higgins each of whom picked off Dracut passes to turn back the Steelers' attack.

The rejuvenated Redmen A team held a tough Dracut A crew scoreless enroute to their 20-0 victory. Tommy Gallella had a nose for the endzone Sunday, as he crossed the goal for three six pointers. His first touchdown came on a one yard blast for a 6-0 lead, as the PAT kick sailed wide.

In the second period, Gallella's second touchdown was set up by the super running of Scott Gaynor and Johnny DeVivo, both of whom carried the enemy tacklers on their backs for long gains. Gallella capped things off as he took it in from three yards out. This time Ron Anderson's kick was perfect, and the Redmen had a 14-0 lead at the halfway point.

In the third period, Gallella's final touchdown was set up by two circus catches by Jay Goldrick, as he fought off the defenders to advance the ball to the Dracut 10 yard line. Gallella then got the call for the 20-0 victory.

Defensive standouts for the Redmen were linebackers Scott Niles and Steve Pesce, along with defensive ends Brian French and Scott Gaynor.

The offensive corps were led by Jay Goldrick's acrobatics and fine catches by Todd Breslin, coupled with good blocking by Jeff Carr and Frank Goglia.

This Sunday the A and B teams travel to Lawrence, while the Chiefs are at home at Ballou-DelRossi Field for a 10 a.m. game against the Lowell Redskins. The B game at Lawrence will begin at 12:30 p.m., with the A contest starting at 2 p.m.

D teams split

Both Tewksbury D teams entered their third week of Merrimack Valley competition last Saturday, as they hosted their Dracut counterparts. In the first game, the Pawnee dropped a tough 13-0 decision to the Dracut Rams, while the Sioux remained tied for first place with Sudbury after their 12-0 victory over the Dracut Packers.

In the Pawnee game, both teams fought to a scoreless first half before Dracut jumped out front in the third period on an 80 yard run for the touchdown. The Rams added a second touchdown in the fourth quarter along with a PAT for the 13-0 win.

Playing good defense for the Purple were Brian Adams, Keith Conney, Larry Rogers, Tim Nawn and Garin Worth. Bolstering the offense were Robert Clark, Ron Clark, Jason Anzivino, Bill Adley, Billy Fay and T.J. Abbott.

The Sioux stayed in the race for the top spot with Sudbury, as they downed a tough Dracut squad, 12-0. The Sioux' first touchdown came in the second frame, as Mark Menezes bolted in from three yards out for a 6-0 lead.

In the third period the Green and Gold got on the boards again behind the efforts of Timmy Lightfoot, as he broke loose on a seven yard jaunt off tackle and tacked on the insurance points to insure the Sioux victory.

The Sioux' defense was anchored by Tommy Callahan, Menezes, Charles Sullivan, Mark Bugley and Robert Capauno. The offense got a lift from quarterback Dana Boudreau, as he connected on two passes to Lightfoot to keep the touchdown march going. Other offensive standouts were Scott Bairstow, Jeff Bradley and Peter MacRae.

Both Tewksbury D teams are away this week, as the Pawnee travel to Wilmington Sunday for a 9 a.m. game at the West Intermediate School. Matt Taylor's Sioux' travel to Featherland Park in Sudbury this Friday for a 7 p.m. game under the lights with the Sudbury Chargers. This should be the key game for the newly-formed 10 years old and under league.

Wilmington Pop Warner

A' squad edged, 8-6

The Wilmington Chargers travelling teams were on the road Sunday, as they battled Methuen in Merrimack Valley Pop Warner gridiron action.

The A's dropped a hard fought 8-6 decision to the Ranger A's in a game that saw both clubs move the ball, only to have the defense stiffen and stop key drives. The B squad was stopped, 24-0, while the C's lost, 19-0 to the Ranger C squad.

In the A contest, Methuen got on the scoreboard late in the first quarter on a 65 yard scoring strike to take a 6-0 lead. The extra point kick was good to give the Rangers an 8-0 lead.

The Chargers came back with a scoring drive in the second quarter, covering 77 yards in the six plays, highlighted by a 55 yard aerial from Don Corson to flanker Danny Woods to the Ranger 18 yard line. The drive was capped off with an 18 yard scoring strike from Tony DeLucia to Woods to close the gap to 8-6. The extra point attempt failed.

The Charger defense was led by Don Corson, Mark Tully, Sean Costello, Dan Cadigan, Tony DeLucia with a fumble recovery and Richie Hayden with a key interception.

The Charger offensive line played well throughout the game, opening holes for running backs Steve Jackson and Don Sullivan while protecting for quarterback Ron Barber. The Charger passing attack amassed 85 yards through the air, with a total offensive production of 137 yards in a hard fought contest.

In a Friday night game, the Charger D squad battled the host Billerica Indians to a 0-0 draw.

The Chargers will host Sudbury Sunday at the high school field, with the C contest at 12:25 p.m., the B's at 2:00, followed by the A contest at 3:15.

TMHS cross country

Tewksbury girls topple Methuen

The Tewksbury Memorial High School boys' and girls' cross country teams opened the season against some of the top teams in the Merrimack Valley Conference. The result has been one win and two losses for the girls, and two losses for the boys. Along the way however, all of the runners on each team have shown marked improvement, and the team leaders have established themselves as first class competitors.

After losing a tough opener in 95 degree heat to Chelmsford, the girls bounced back in fine style to beat Methuen, a Tewksbury nemesis for five years. The race was run on the Methuen home course, but Teresa Forsyth, team captain, followed by Julie Bernardi and Fran Mulrain, took over after the half mile mark and made it a rout.

Surprising sophomore Renee Juchnevics also pulled ahead of the first Methuen runner to make it a 1-2-3-4 sweep. Rounding out the top seven were Peggy Forsyth (10th), Diane Tremblay (11th) and Tricia Censullo (13th).

Two days later the girls faced a tough Lowell team at Shedd Park. At the front of the race, Terest Forsyth battled it out for first with Lowell's Katie Stewart and Tricia Vail. Characteristically, Teresa gave a 110 percent effort, reluctantly settling for second place. Senior Julie Bernardi followed close behind in fifth. Both girls ran the best times ever turned in by Tewksbury runners on the Lowell course.

The boys team took heavy poundings from Chelmsford and Lowell, but they also had some bright spots. Leading the way in style has been Steve Murphy, a junior who began to make his mark running the mile last spring. He covered many miles of hard training over the summer and is now running with the top runners in the conference. In his first cross country races ever, Steve took fourth against powerful Chelmsford and third against Lowell. He is now poised to take first against most of the other teams in the league.

Bringing hope to the boys' prospects for the season is the effort and improvement being displayed by the sophomores and upperclassmen running cross country for the first time. Jeff Smith joined the team to get into shape for basketball, and is turning into a fine cross country runner. He began showing what he could do against Lowell when he took sixth with a great performance.

Other promising sophomores are Ed Piscopo, Brian Tremblay, Mike McLaughlin, Drew Finsel, Tom Welch and Don Pica. Joel Mallett, Kent Appleby, Marc Creamer and Peter Santori are seniors who have shown surprising ability at the two and a half to three mile run in their first attempts.

Altogether, the 26 young athletes who comprise the boys' and girls' cross country teams at Tewksbury High School have represented their school and themselves well. They have worked hard to improve, they have begun to see what their capabilities are and have come closer to reaching their full potential.

Sports editor's note: This copy was submitted by TMHS cross country coach Bob MacDougall. The Town Crier appreciates Bob's contribution and cooperation.

Hammond race record

Paul Hammond of Wilmington recently took first place in the Stouffer's Hi-Tech 10K Road Race after he crossed the finish line in a record time of 30 minutes, 45 seconds. Hammond received a trip for two to the Peach Tree Classic Road Race in Atlanta, Georgia July 4, 1984, a trophy and a magnum of champagne.

The first annual Stouffer's Hi-Tech 10K Road Race was run on Sunday, Sept. 11 for the benefit of the Massachusetts' Special Olympics and Scholarships for Advancement in the Hi-Tech Industry to Bedford, Burlington and Billerica High Schools. The 6.2 mile race, created by Stouffer's Bedford Glen Hotel, was completed by some 1,000 runners. The top five finishers in each division, over 95 runners, received Bedford weekends at Stouffer's Bedford Glen Hotel and a variety of other prizes.

Lisa Madden Clark leader

Although a 2-1-2 record in not indicative of a successful start, the Clark University women's field hockey team has looked impressive through its first five outings. The season opener against a talented Connecticut College team ended in a 1-1 tie behind Elaine Siddal's first goal as a Cougar.

Next on the schedule was Franklin Pierce College, which proved too much for a sluggish Clark team, as the Lady Cougars fell, 2-1.

In their most recent game, the team played a solid SMU squad to a 1-1 tie, with Wilmington's Lisa Madden scoring the lone Clark goal. Chris Reed scored four goals and the defense limited Wellesley to only two shots, as Clark rolled to a 4-0 victory in what coach Lynne Olson hopes is the beginning of a streak.

Madden, the team's top returning scorer, is the backbone of the Clark defense. She is at her best roaming around the goalmouth deflecting passes and latching on to wayward shots for opportunistic goals. She also has a keen eye for passing and assisting on other goals with her sharp anticipation and excellent vision.

"Lisa is a quiet, hardnosed type of player, always giving 100 percent. We rely heavily on her to score and to initiate good passing combinations. She has confident stick work and a strong drive," according to sixth year coach Olson.

Madden's own thoughts on the team and the current season are straightforward. "Once we adjust to each other's individual playing styles we will do very well. I feel we are capable of reaching our goals for the season, improving on last year's record and regaining the State Championship title that we held in 1981."

Lisa is a government major looking to establish a career in juvenile law. She is also a member of the Clark women's softball team, pitching and playing the outfield. Madden is also a member of the student athletic training staff, covering varsity contests and practices during the off season.

played for Jack Donohue (who was Kareem Abdul Jabbar's high school coach at Power Memorial High School in New York), has been an assistant at Brown University for two years under Providence College coach Joe Mullaney, has coached at Columbia University for three years under Arthur (Buddy) Maher, and most recently worked as an assistant at St. Joseph's of Philadelphia under Jim Boyle.

At 8:30, Jim Todd, the assistant coach at Columbia University in New York, will speak on team defense. Coach Todd played his high school basketball at Billerica. He has been an assistant at Columbia for four years. Previously he was the head coach at Fitchburg State College and Notre Dame of Fitchburg, where his team won the Massachusetts' Division III State title in 1976-77 with a 23-2 slate. Coach Todd was named Central Mass Coach of the Year for this achievement.

The clinic will feature a raffle at 8 p.m. for one Kodak camera and two pocket radios. Tickets for the raffle will cost $1.00, and the proceeds will benefit the newly formed Tewksbury Basketball Boosters Club.

"Four of the finest young basketball coaches in the area will be volunteering their time to the Tewksbury community next Monday night," says Melillo, "so let's show them our appreciation by having a large turnout. Local youth league players and coaches will benefit greatly from this clinic."

bickering among the adults involved. "I could care less what problems the adults have with each other. They can take a hike. I just want to work out a solution where the kids come out the winners."

Parents told the commission that they had verbally requested a meeting with the board of directors prior to the final picks so that "the kids would not be hurt." Flanagan said that the board does not usually hold open meetings, and that requests for open meetings should appear in writing.

"I can't believe that the soccer board wants to isolate the parents," said Whelton, while warning those in attendance to "stop listening to third parties throwing bombs and go to the source."

Parents at the meeting saw the situation as a sad one that could have easily been avoided. "You just can't tell a child that he's made a team one week and the next week tell him that you found someone better."

Another stepfather found fault with the system itself, saying: "The real tragedy is that the boys know now that youth soccer held a tryout that meant little or nothing."

And finally, from a parent who had the problem, and its' solution pretty well thought out. "It's not the kids who are the problem, it's the adults. The adults should be very responsible."

"Kids are much more resilient than adults," offered Whelton. They will bounce back if they see that the adults are working toward a solution."

"I told my son that some adults made a very big mistake," said Mrs. Walsh. "Adults do that sometimes."

the lead until forward Cheri Murray tied the score at 1-1. Despite the effort of goalie Deanna Lamport, making 11 saves during the game, Wilmington came back to score the game winner. Halfbacks Donna Amico and tri-captain Sue Pollard both played solid games for Tewksbury.

Forwards Missy Glencross and Tracy Danner each scored one goal to defeat Methuen, 2-0. Cheri Murray assisted both Glencross and Danner. Halfbacks Kim Dziadosz, Lori Nanzato and Kelly Reale helped keep Methuen scoreless with a strong defensive effort. Forwards

Deb Lungren, Kelly Molony and Liz Busch also made strong contributions in the game.

Congregational Church celebrates 250th anniversary this month

The Congregational Church in Wilmington, organized October 24, 1733, will be celebrating 250 years of serving God and His people this month. A gala 250th Anniversary Banquet is to be held October 22, and on Sunday, October 23, at 10:30 a.m. the church will celebrate Heritage

Sunday.

The first words, preserved in the earliest records of Wilmington are these: "The Word of God is among us, and it passed in the affirmative." This was in the little school house, on Main Street and Butters Row. It was the site of the first town meeting, and of the first religious service in Wilmington.

Religion, education, and civic responsibilities were all held in solemn obligation, for every man to undertake. The men who headed the petition for a separate town were men of this type, John Harnden of Reading and Samuel Eames and Benjamin Harnden of Woburn. Each of these, at separate times, served as Deacon, in the church of that day.

The church was the first public building to be erected in Wilmington. It was erected a few rods farther northeasterly than the present structure. The front step is the cornerstone of the "old" cemetery.

The structure was of two stories, 28 feet high, 36 feet wide, and 46 feet long. It was built of oak "the plank to be full inch and a half thick." There was no point on that first structure.

The church was organized on October 24, 1733, with 17 male members. Later that same year 22 women members were added.

The Rev. James Varney was the first minister. He was chosen after a day of solemn fasting and prayer. That day had been set aside by the town in the following vote: "Voted, that the Reverend Mr. Browne of Reading and the Reverend Mr. Phillips of Andover be treated with and entertained by the committee in the Town's behalf, to carry on the solemn exercises of a fast in this town, for the Devine Favor to this people in the great, might and important affair of the choice and settlement of a Gospel Minister."

The Day of Prayer was to be held in behalf of the Town's choice of a man who should give instruction in the Christian religion to old and young, who would lead in the services of public prayer, visit the sick and the afflicted, and bury the dead.

The Reverend James Varney became the first minister of the Church of Christ, in Wilmington. He stayed but six years, when, on account of ill health, he was released.

Take a Hike!

Boy Scouts Eric and Kurt Rachdorf display buttons with the membership drive theme "Take a Hike!" Troop 56 will hold a membership night on Mon., Oct. 17 at 7 p.m. at the Wilmington Congregational Church.

Joe Cuoco retires

Wilmington police news

A 13-year-old New Hampshire youth died as the result of a one car accident, on Andover Street last Friday. The accident was about 9:30 p.m.

Investigating Officer Robert Vassallo reported a compact pickup truck, driven by Richard Exline of 224 Backriver Road, Bedford, N.H., went out of control, hit a dirt shoulder of the road and flipped over. The passenger, 13-year-old Brian McNamara of Derry, N.H., was taken to the Regional Health Center, and then transferred to the Cohate Hospital, where he passed away.

Exline, who is 18, was arrested after an investigation by Officer Vassallo. He is charged with operating under the influence of alcohol, driving so as to endanger, and automobile homicide.

Exline was also taken to the Regional Health Center for treatment of injuries. He was later bailed from the Health Center for a Monday court appearance.

His case, in Woburn Court, was continued to October 17, for his attorney's appearance.

Early Saturday morning Officer Steve Parsons arrested Albert Orio, 17, of 13 Pembroke St., Wilmington. The arrest was made following an investigation of an accident on Butters Row. Orio was charged with operating under the influence, endangering and failing to stop for a stop sign. He appeared in Woburn District Court, and his case was continued to Oct. 17, for his attorney's appearance.

Officer Gable investigated an accident early Friday morning at Middlesex Avenue and Main Street. Minor injuries had been sustained by one of the drivers. The operators were Robert Mainey, 27, of 10 Wildwood Road, Tewksbury, and Christine Ferrara, 32, of 88 Perry Ave., Lawrence. Mainey was taken to the Regional Health Center for treatment of minor injuries.

A minor accident, Tuesday, afternoon caused damage to an auto on Jonspin Road. The driver of the car was Nancy Lees, 33, of 81 Woburn St., Methuen. The car was struck by a construction loader owned by the Graymount Company of Needham, and operated by Barry Kmiecak of 33 Adams St., Waltham. No injuries were reported to investigating Officer Michael McKenna.

Safety Officer Bob Shelley is currently conducting Bus Safety programs in the public schools. This is in conjunction with the Registry of Motor Vehicles. The program involves all the schools. It is a demonstration of proper safety procedures, including bus evacuation in case of emergencies. This is a yearly program conducted by the Safety Officer.

There were a total of 11 accidents during the past week. Two arrests were made. Twice the departments. During the week the police department responded to a total of 18 disturbances. There were four reports of larceny, and five cases of protective custody. Three motor vehicles were stolen, there were 11 reports of suspicious activity and three complaints about trailblazers.

There were 18 alarms. There was one case of assault and battery, one of breaking and entering, and one of a domestic problem. Three stolen motor vehicles were recovered, seven reports were made of traffic complaints, and four of vandalism.

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

The Wilmington Planning Board will be holding a Public Hearing on Tuesday, October 11, 1983 at 9:00 P.M. in the Planning Board Office, Town Hall Annex, 342 Middlesex Avenue, for the purpose of obtaining the opinions of all those interested in Article 8 as it appears on the Warrant for the Special Town Meeting.

Article 8: To see if the Town will vote to amend the Official Map of the Town of Wilmington to show the full length of Marion Street, a distance of approximately one and four tenths of a mile, starting at a point of intersection of Burlington Avenue, Chestnut Street and Marion Street and following a more or less "U" shape to another point of intersection on Chestnut Street at the Baldwin Apple Monument; so that a building permit may be issued without the need of a Board of Appeals action mandating the construction of the street. Middlesex Division Docket No.

NOTICE

To all persons interested in Joshua Handlett of Wilmington in said County, a minor:

A petition has been presented in the above-captioned matter by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Department of Social Services, Marie A. Matava Commissioner, praying that the Court award it permanent custody of said minor in accordance with Massachusetts General Laws Chapter 119 section 23c.

If you desire to object to the allowance of said petition, you or your attorney must file a written appearance in said Court at Cambridge on or before December 16, 1983.

WITNESS, SHEILA E. McGOVERN, Esquire, First Justice of said Court at Cambridge, the twenty-seventh day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eighty-three.

Paul J. Cavanaugh, Register of Probate

Dear Larz:

As I was browsing through my pile of Town Criers, which I cherish and save for your devoted writings of history and heritage of our town, a magnificent poem written by Sylvia Neilson caught my eye. (September 24, 1980, regarding Wilmington's bicentennial in 1930, page 5.) The title of her poem is "Candles on your cake." I shall quote the last paragraph.

"Blow not these fair candles out!
Let them shine forever
Gaining settlers for our town,
Keeping old ones ever."

The direction chosen at the Special Town Meeting on September 19th by the careless voters who attended and didn't attend, and some of our Town Fathers certainly doesn't keep the tradition Sylvia Neilson was expressing in her very perceptive poem.

There's no justice for our parents and all the elderly who have to leave Wilmington when they are unable to maintain a home anymore, as so little housing is available. Also with times so hard our young people deserve a helping hand, with housing so hard to find, and so difficult.

Unfortunately industrial development isn't "Gaining settlers for our town," or helping "Keeping old ones ever."

Housing for our loved ones would have been an asset to this town, helping to preserve a typical colonial country atmosphere, whereas industrial development has only contributed to the defacement of beautiful land. Also bringing only increased problems for the taxpayers - traffic - (all over town, including adding problem traffic to other towns), increased industrial hazards for our townspeople, police and fire department, increased drain on our already poor, high sodium water supply and increased pollution throughout our town.

Rezoning to General Industrial District, not only destroyed the future of homes on Ballardvale Street, but also the future of 15 homes on Andover Street. Some of the homeowners have been residents all of their lifetime, their ancestors before them.

Yes, here we all sit, in the blessed "Land of Nod," most of the time in a traffic jam at the intersection of Andover Street and Route 125, and you dare to say more industry won't hurt our residential area??

Last week at approximately 4:00 a.m. an oversized tractor trailer (lost as usual), woke both my husband and me up and another neighbor also as the driver stopped outside of our bedroom windows, yelling to the Boston Globe delivery man for directions. This has happened too many other times disturbing other neighbors also, and you dare say rezoning more land to industry won't affect us here in our forgotten Industrial residential cocoon??

Another quote - The Town Crier, same date previously mentioned - "With reference to that part of Wilmington which was called Goshen, there does not seem, in the very early days, to have been such a phrase as 'The Land of Goshen.' Perhaps the writer is in error, but he has not found such a reference. Goshen seems to have been a friendly place, where a family could live."

"The Land of Nod, on the other hand, was so called. This was directly used, in a Biblical and historical sense, in Wilmington."

"Nod, in the Bible, was a land that was unknown. It was beyond the realm of the Hebrew Jehovah. It was a far away place, and all was unknown where no one lived." - end of quote.

Perhaps some of your views helped to destroy "The Land of Nod"

If the writer was in error, or didn't know all the facts, why did you even bother to speculate about the unknown???

This letter is based on fact and I pray that you will print it along with Sylvia Neilson's magnificent poem - "Candles on your cake."

"The Land of Nod," God's country to me as a child and most of my lifetime, was once one of the most beautiful exclusive areas, conducive to developing into residential in the whole town of Wilmington - Unfortunately it is now destroyed, thanks to our great worthy advisors. Now everyone shall suffer the consequences.

I've heard enough about so called free enterprise - ("World Book Encyclopedia Dictionary definition - free enterprise, the right of private business to select and operate undertakings for profit with a minimum of control or regulation on the part of the government.")

What about the rights of the taxpayers, some who have been here for their entire lifetime?

Seems there is no justice for a homeowner who fulfills a dream caring for a home and family only to be forced out of town by industry.

is so called free enterprise, justice for all??? Damn it, NO!!!

Sincerely,

Sonja Maria Carlson

Prince Edward Island -- The million acre farm

By AL AND FRANCES SYLVIA PART I

The colors of Prince Edward Island are the green in the rolling hills and tall trees, the red in the soil and cliffs, the white in the sand of the beautiful beaches and the blue in the ocean waters. Blessed with an abundance of natural beauty, it is no wonder that in 1534 Jacques Cartier described this island, cradled in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, as "The fairest land 'tis possible to see." The smallest of Canada's provinces, P.E.I. is 140 miles long and although 40 miles across at its widest, one is never more than 7 miles from the water which laps its coastline of inlets and sheltered coves.

Prince Edward Island is reached by a short ferry ride from Caribou, Nova Scotia, and we felt right at home on this sister vessel to the ferry which travels between Woods Hole and Martha's Vineyard. But here the similarity ended. When we docked at Wood Islands there was nothing there but a line of cars waiting to board — no taxis, no sightseeing busses, no sea of humanity in search of summer fun. The island has a quality of remoteness and isolation where the visitor can escape the frantic pace of 20th century living to the peace and solitude of an unhurried way of life. Perhaps that is why the perennial project of connecting P.E.I. to New Brunswick via a causeway has never materialized.

The island is divided into three scenic drives — the Lady Slipper, the Blue Heron and the Kings Byway. Our drive to the capital of Charlottetown on the Kings Byway took us through quiet fishing villages, forests and acres of farmland. The lush green landscape was broken by bright patches of purple, white and pink lupine growing profusely along the roadsides. The farms, planted with wheat, oats and barley but mostly potatoes, are laid out in neatly patterned designs, earning P.E.I. the name of "million acre farm" and "spud island." The houses are built with gables and steeply sloping roofs to accommodate the winter snows. We saw large tracts of dead spruce trees laid brown by bud worm blight which hits in cycles but because of the extensive woodland areas and farming they do not find it practical to spray.

Agriculture is the most important industry. Who hasn't heard of P.E.I. potatoes? They grow many vegetables and berries, engage in dairy farming and raise enough horses to be dubbed the "Kentucky of Canada." Tourism ranks second followed closely by fishing and lobster is king. It is estimated that in a good year more than 11 million pounds are trapped off its shores.

Although the early Micmac Indian inhabitants called the island "Minegoo" believing that the Great Spirit created it as an earthly paradise, and the French named it Ile St. Jean, its present name was given by the British in honor of Edward, father of Queen Victoria.

Prince Edward Island takes great pride in its place in Canada's history. It was here in Charlottetown in 1864 that the Confederation Conference was held laying the foundation which gave birth to Canada as a nation in 1867. True to their spirit of independence, the islanders took their time and did not join the Confederation until 1873. The conference took place in Province House which is the seat of the legislative assembly. While we were in Charlottetown another important meeting was being held — the Conference of New England Governors and Premiers of the Eastern Provinces to discuss acid rain. Governor Dukakis acted as moderator of the conference.

Charlottetown

Of the 122,000 population on P.E.I. the capital and only city of Charlottetown is home to about 22,000 and is an important commercial and educational center whose early growth came with the arrival of Loyalist New Englanders. The streets are lined with stately homes and old brick buildings of a past era. Government House, residence of the lieutenant governor, with its imposing Greek portico and colonial style, was built in 1834 and overlooks beautiful Victoria Park along the waterfront.

The city is also home of the University of P.E.I. and in this area we saw the signs of 20th century intrusion of fast foods with Kentucky Colonel, McDonald's, Pizza parlors, etc.

Arriving in Charlottetown we had our first taste of P.E.I. hospitality. After inquiring about the location of the Charlottetown Hotel, we not only received directions but the driver personally escorted us directly to the front door. We call that service. Here we had comfortable ac-

ROVING

FM TALK: Our roving correspondent is taking time off to contemplate the writings of Frederick Perls, so until he returns here are a few more of those off-beat tidbits of American history to mull over:

In his book, "Facts About the Presidents", Joseph Kane noted that President Franklin Roosevelt and his wife, Eleanor, were obsessed with their personal safety. FDR slept with a handgun beneath his pillow, and Eleanor seldom went anywhere without a pistol in her purse or glove compartment. According to Kane, the pistol-packing

Roosevelts became the brunt of jokes by White House servants who referred to the weapons as "His" and "Hers."

Personal safety was not the only fear FDR had. Being handicapped, he feared fire. He refused to allow fires in White House fireplaces, unless someone was around him at all times.

Kane also noted that FDR had the most impressive lineage of any president. Genealogists determined that the thirty-second president was related to the following eleven presidents: George Washington, John Adams, James Madison, John Quincy Adams, Martin Van Buren, William Henry Harrison, Zachary Taylor, U.S. Grant, Benjamin Harrison, Theodore Roosevelt and William Howard Taft.

John F. Kennedy, in his book, "Profiles in Courage", illustrated that not all politicians have a flare for choosing the right words when responding to inquiries from constituents. In 1934, California congressman John Steven McGroarty replied to a constituent with this now-famous letter:

"One of the countless drawbacks of being in Congress is that I am compelled to receive impertinent letters from a jackass like you in which you say I promised to have the Sierra Madre mountains reforested and I have been in Congress two months and haven't done it. Will you please take two running jumps and go to hell."

Sounds to me like Congressman McGroarty knew exactly how to pick his words. While on the

Tidbits

The Aleutian Islands are the farthest west extension of the North American continent and the farthest east, too, because in mid-sweep the archipelago crosses 180 degrees into east longitude, National Geographic says.

Trivia

One of the duties of NORAD, North American Aerospace Defense Command, is to keep track of manmade objects in space, from spent rocket boosters to orbiting debris. National Geographic says that as of June 20, 1983, the count was 4,914.

Prince Edward Island- million acre farm commodations for our two-night stay and enjoyed our first P.E.I. lobster served cold-boiled and delicious. Donning the bib and digging in at a lobster supper is an island tradition and our second evening we had lobster at the Fisherman's Wharf in Rustico on the northern shore. Even the mid-westerners in our group, not too familiar with tackling the lobster, voted this a tradition worth preserving. Although plentiful, lobster is not cheap. A chicken lobster dinner was $12.95, 1½ pound was $15.50 and lobster salad plate, $12.95. Of course with the dollar exchange about 20% could be deducted in converting to U. S. currency. The shells are all cracked and they are served with a handy pick of a different design than we are used to which makes eating very easy.

Dunvegan Farm

Also in keeping with an island tradition we visited a potato farm — Dunvegan Farm in Uigg owned by Harold MacLeod. This is a family run farm of 170 acres and three leased farms worked by the father, son and three hired men. The name is derived from Castle Dunvegan in Scotland, the stronghold of the MacLeod clan. The potato plants in neat rows stretch into the horizon and include several varieties, many of which are shipped to the Pennsylvania Market. This is one of the many farms which contribute to the tons of potato production each year.

The farmer discussed his problems which seem similar to those of our farmers — poor economy in general, declining farmland, and the high cost of equipment which he said had doubled in four years. But in keeping with his independent heritage, he still prefers free enterprise over government subsidies. Last year was his best in several with a 30,000 pound yield per acre. Also grown on this farm are barley, wheat and oats together with beef cattle but the beef market has been very poor, MacLeod said.

Again we sampled P.E.I. hospitality with hot coffee, homemade blueberry muffins and cookies to ward off the chill of the cool, cloudy morning. In addition to operating the farm, the MacLeods have a farm motel for a type of vacation becoming very popular on the island. Arrangements can be made to stay with farm or fishing families in rural parts of the countryside which include homecooked meals and traditional country hospitality on a bed and breakfast overnight or weekly stay.

Lunch was at the Lobster Shanty North in Montague, an attractive rustic building with large picture windows overlooking an inlet. The unusual salad bar was set up in a row boat. Preparations were being made for the luncheon visit the following week of Prince Charles and Princess Diana and security checks had been conducted in the area for over two weeks. Joining us was Jim MacNeil, publisher of two weekly newspapers, one on each end of the island. We visited his Montague paper after lunch and were amused at a cartoon ready for publication showing Prince Charles arriving at the Lobster Shanty and saying, "I hear we are going to have 'Grits' for dinner." It was explained that 'grits' is the popular name for liberals.

Orwell Corner

Our sightseeing included a visit to Orwell Corner off the Kings Byway which is a turn of the century rural life museum. The buildings date back to 1895. The Clarke's General Store filled with 19th century household products, fabrics and hardware; the Clarke house, center of rural family life; the one-room schoolhouse with its well-carved desks; a blacksmith shop and other restored buildings make up the community. The museum honors the memory of the 19th century Irish, Scottish and Loyalists settlers.

Cavendish Beach

On the magnificent northern shore, 25 miles of beach are under the management of the P.E.I. National Park keeping them in their natural state and preventing commercialization from encroaching upon their unspoiled beauty and openness. Special activities are scheduled throughout the summer ranging from sand sculpting to natural history programs and organized events such as hiking, cycling and canoeing.

Cavendish Beach extends for miles with fine white sand, without rocks or shells and is hidden behind the dunes which are planted with a special type of sharp grass to help prevent erosion which is a serious problem.

Green Gables

Nearby in the picturesque park area is the famous Green Gables known through the literary works of Lucy Maud Montgomery as the house where her storybook character Anne lived. Published in 1908, the book about the island's fictional folk heroine, was followed by over 20 others by this local author. Visited each year by thousands of tourists the house is one of the outstanding attractions on the island. The author was born on the island and is buried in a nearby cemetery. Green Gables has been under the park ownership since 1936.

We wandered through the carefully preserved rooms of the old gabled house. The dining room table was set for dinner and the cheerful kitchen contained a spinning wheel, old fashioned flat and crimping irons, and cast iron skillets. Seeing the carefully made beds of the children's rooms, one is transported back in time and almost expects the children to come running in from across the green fields. The house sits on a rise overlooking the gardens, the babbling brook, and spruce and birch trees of the fabled haunted woods of the story. Maude's ancient typewriter sits on the hall table ready to type more manuscripts alongside the postal scale which she used in helping her grandmother in the Cavendish Post Office at the turn of the century.

After an all too short visit, we left Prince Edward Island by ferry from the western terminal at Borden for a 45-minute crossing to Cape Tormentine, New Brunswick.

On Thursday, October 6, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., Choate-Symmes Health Services, Inc., will host a Red Cross Bloodmobile at the Symmes Hospital Division in Arlington

Approximately 19 percent of the blood supply is used for the treatment of cancer; patients who suffer from heart disease use 16 percent of the blood supply; treatments for gastrointestinal tract disease account for about 16 percent; and other patients desperately needing blood include accident victims, hemophiliacs, and those suffering with respiratory, lung, liver and kidney diseases. Every resident of the community who is 17 years of age or older, weighs at least 110 pounds and is in good

Time to bring in your plants

The cool, frosty nights of fall in Massachusetts will soon be here. Now is the time to bring in your houseplants which have been "summering" outdoors in the garden.

Most houseplants are injured by frost and cool weather, and so the Middlesex County Extension Service recommends bringing them in before damage occurs.

However, there are several important points to consider for these plants to grow satisfactorily in your home this winter. Simply bringing the plants inside is not enough if the plants are to be insectfree and vigorous.

Houseplants should be reconditioned now, before they are returned to the windowsills. A pesticide mixture should be applied to prevent possible insect and disease problems. Those plants that are overgrown, potbound or misshapen should be pruned and repotted to give them a fresh start. Instead of bringing in large plants, start a few new ones from cuttings to produce vigorous young plants. Finally, houseplants should be given a good feeding of liquid plant food. Also, remembering to feed them once a month during the winter will keep them vigorous.

Save houseplants now for winter enjoyment. Bring them in before frost and take steps to promote their beauty this winter. For further details on houseplant care, call the Middlesex County Extension Service, 105 Everett St., Concord, Ma. 01742. Telephone 845 or 862-2380.

FREE MERRILL LYNCH SEMINAR

Are you paying more money than you should — or want to — in high taxes? Do you sometimes wonder why others in your same income bracket pay much less taxes than you do?

Saving money on taxes is so important to so many people these days that Merrill Lynch has put together a special seminar on some of the various ways that individual investors like yourself can achieve this goal.

Our experts will present information on:

- Getting tax-free income: How tax exempt municipal bonds — bond funds — and investment trusts can be used to increase your take-home income by up to 50%.

- Selecting the "best" Keogh plan. How you can save every year on taxes. How you can be as conservative or as aggressive as you wish. How you can choose from many types of investments such as money market instruments, corporate bonds or common stocks.

- Getting the most out of IRA plans. How you could shelter a portion of your taxable income. How to enjoy important investment flexibility by selecting from many vehicles designed to achieve growth, income, safety or a combination of all three.

You'll have an opportunity to ask questions about your personal tax situation at the seminar and find out if you qualify for a Keogh or IRA plan. You can also participate in useful discussions on advanced tax-saving techniques.

HOW TO SAVE MONEY ON TAXES.

You have two dates to choose from: Tuesday, October 11th or Tuesday, October 25th. Time: 7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Place: Merrill Lynch Office, Conference Room, 7 New England Executive Park, Burlington.

Mail today or for reservations call Harvey Albert or Richard Batten at (617) 229-7458 or (617) 229-7465.

23 years a Red Sox Yaz Day at Fenway Park

YAZ DAY FESTIVITIES drew a capacity attendance of 33,491 fans to Fenway. The day's activities occurring on the next to last game of the season brought a tremendous baseball career to an outstanding climax. The photos above show Yaz t-shirts for sale, Yaz thanking the crowd, the Howard Johnson sign on Boylston Street saying thanks for the memories, the Fenway scoreboard showing some of the famed Red Sox player's statistics, interested spectators, some of the huge crowd in attendance, and the famed Red Sox slugger in the on-deck circle on Yaz Day in his usual position preparing for one of his last times at bat, ending his spectacular baseball career. Need job training - contact JTPA

The new federally-funded Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) commences on October 1 replacing CETA as the job training program across the country. Locally, three separate CETA programs currently administered through the cities of Cambridge, Medford, and Chelsea have merged to form Employment Resources, Inc. to provide JTPA services to twenty (20) cities and towns.

Employment Resources, Inc. (ERI) is offering programs including: classroom skill training, basic education and pre-vocational classes, English-as-a-Second Language, On-the-Job Training, Job Factory and special youth programs.

"JTPA services are geared primarily to economically disadvantaged individuals. Because eligibility must be documented, applicants should be prepared with proof of community residence, verification of family income for the past six (6) months or verification of handicap," says Kathy Burnes, JTPA Manager.

ERI service and training operations will be housed in three currently existing CETA facilities where applications will also be taken: 50 Essex St., Cambridge; 24 Hancock Ave., Medford and 980 Broadway, Chelsea.

Residents of the following communities can apply for ERI services: Arlington, Belmont, Burlington, Cambridge, Chelsea, Everett, Malden, Medford, Melrose, North Reading, Reading, Revere, Somerville, Stoneham, Wakefield, Watertown, Wilmington, Winchester, Winthrop, and Woburn.

"The Wiz" - still as enjoyable as the original

By RICK PEARL

If you've always enjoyed The Wizard of Oz you might be hesitant to wholly embrace The Wiz the Black musical version of L. Frank Baum's wonderful fairy tale. There is a natural tendency on everyone's part to feel that one can't improve on a classic. Rest easy, Yellow Brick Road-fans. The Wiz is every bit as enjoyable as the original.

Oz has its famous songs and scenes. Wiz has its famous songs and scenes. Oz had an up-and-coming star in Judy Garland. Wiz had an up-and-coming (now firmly established) star in Stephanie Mills. Oz had great scenery and costumes, as does Wiz. Just add some dynamic dancing, a touch of soul, and an extra witch to the well-known story and you've got a Broadway hit — which is exactly what The Wiz was when it first debuted in 1975, winning seven Tony Awards including Best Musical.

Now, after a four year hiatus, The Wiz has returned. After a two-week stay in Boston at the Shubert Theatre, it heads off on a six-month national tour before returning to Broadway in March.

Ms. Mills returns in the role of Dorothy which she introduced at the age of 16. She still seems as young and buoyant as ever. Her voice is in fine form, and in two memorable scenes with The Lion (Gregg Baker) leaves the audience mesmerized with the power and range of their combined voices.

The Lion is Dorothy's favorite in this version of the tale (the Scarecrow got most of Judy Garland's affection), and he'll soon be yours as well. Baker, who will be making his Metropolitan Opera debut in Porgy and Bess in 1985, recreates the cowardly king of the jungle as a heroic figure, despite his fears. The songs "Be A Lion" and "Don't Cry Girl" are major highlights of the evening.

Not that the other characters aren't memorable in their own right. The Scarecrow, Charles Valentino, puts on a dynamic performance, stumbling, bumbling, folding and crumbling all over the stage. The Tin Man (Howard Porter) is a creaking collection of beer and garbage cans who nevertheless comes across as warmer than his metallic body (and lack of heart) might indicate.

The Wiz herself, Ella Mitchell, is a bit shrill when first seen (and heard), but still commands attention, especially in her later scenes, such as "If You Believe" (which should have been the last scene prior to the finale.)

Then, of course, there are the witches. Ella Mitchell, as Evillene, the Wicked Witch of the West, is one big, bad momma, and sure to be a crowd pleaser. Her sisters, Addaperle (John-Ann Washington) and Glinda (Ann Duquesnay) also find room in The Wiz's vast spotlight.

Throw in a great opening number by Aunt Em (Juanita Fleming), great dance scenes featuring the Tornado, Poppies, and the Winged Monkeys and you've got a show that's packed with excitement.

If The Wiz has one drawback, actually, it's that it's too packed. The end drags quite a bit, especially in a spiritual number by the Wiz ("Y'all Got It") that would be better off left out. Glinda also hangs around a bit longer than she should at the end, and, in general, Dorothy takes a lot longer to get home than normal. But then again, as Addaperle says when asked why she didn't tell Dorothy earlier how she could get home (click those heels, honey), "then all of these people would be out of a job." True enough.

Despite these minor detractions, however, The Wiz is still one of the more enjoyable productions of the last decade. It makes people smile, and what's the matter with that?

Parent Aide volunteers sought

Raising children is no easy chore; the task may produce more problems than parents can cope with on their own. The Parent Aide Program, sponsored by the Child Abuse and Neglect Prevention Committee of the Eastern Middlesex Council for Children, needs volunteers to be caring, understanding, and supportive adult companions to parents who need help coping.

The Parent Aide Program gives parents who need help coping with parental stress the opportunity to experience a caring, trusting and worthwhile relationship. A trained volunteer aide agrees to befriend an overwhelmed parent for a year. The current situation rarely involves child abuse, however, emotional abuse or other parenting problems might exist.

Following the training program, aides contact their referred parents on a weekly basis, and must attend group supervisory meetings. Supervision allows the aides to discuss the relationships with their clients and to lend support to one another.

If you would like to be notified of the training program, or for further information, please call John Reagan, Community Representative, Eastern Middlesex Area Council for Children, 7 Lincoln Street, Wakefield, Ma. Phone 245-5267.

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

Mrs. Agnes Cassidy of Lynnfield was our church organist and choir master many years ago. She said to me after testing my singing voice, "You would be great singing 'Solo.'" I was elated until she added, "So low, no one can hear you."

I love my Aunt Maria but she's a pain in the neck. My uncle left her a house in Tewksbury worth over a hundred thousand dollars. He drowned while fishing. He couldn't read or write or swim either. Anyway, Aunt Maria came over for a "short" two hour visit last night. When she got up to leave she asked my wife "I hope I didn't bore the Woodchipper?" "Not at all," my wife exclaimed, "he was depressed when you came — now he's happy to see you go."

Walter Surret, a handsome young Lowell Tech. College student worked several jobs this past summer to help defray the tuition cost. He gave up installing mufflers — he came home "Exhausted." He worked only a short time for the Goodyear Co. He was always "tired." Then he got a job he liked — in a bakery, in the Italian bread department where he "loafed" the rest of the summer.

My friendly mailman Tom Mooney from Winchester bought a beautiful Labrador Retriever puppy early last spring. The dog's name is Holly who has grown in "leaks and bounds." I asked Tom this morning, "Why is Holly running round and round in circles?" "I thought you knew," he responded, "she's a 'watch dog' and she's winding herself up."

Jack Reilly of Woburn keeps band-aids in the refrigerator — in case of a cold-cut. Jim Mullen of Burlington, a retired Boston Edison electrician, was told that this is the time of the year to plant bulbs. He wasted no time in putting in some 50-75 and 100 watters. Jim won't get any tulips next summer I'm sure but he'll without any doubt have the brightest garden in Burlington.

Dan Holland of Winchester has retired from F.D.A. Like the Postal Workers' motto, "Neither rain or snow or dark of night stayed him from his appointed rounds for the Lab. May you enjoy many years of good health and happiness. A barroom just opened up around the corner from my Uncle Dinny's house — now my Aunt Nora doesn't drive him to drink anymore.

Larry A'Hern was an altar boy as a young lad. However his responses were with a "wee bit of the brogue." The pastor of St. Barbara's Church asked Larry, "Why?" "Because," replied Larry, "Latin is all Greek to me."

Kenny and his wife Wendy Carrier are from Wakefield, formerly from New Hampshire. Kenny is proud that he was born and raised on a farm in fact he boasted last night that he can shoe a horse, plow a field and milk a cow. "There's nothing about a farm I can't do." "Oh?" asked Frank Mazzoni of Wilmington, "Can you lay an egg?"

Nicole Hiden of Burlington is a darling seven-year-old "live wire." She helps the paper girl deliver the Woburn Times in her neighborhood. The Stoneham police picked up two boys who shot out two windows with their BB guns. The case was referred to the "Appellate" Court.

Dear Folks, from time to time I will end Woodships with excerpts from my original poems.

"SAY IT NOW"

Don't write the words "I love you dear" and put them in a book. Don't place them on a shelf so high they won't get another look.

Go tell the one you care about, your mother, wife or friend,

That you love them so very much and hope it will never end.

Bring those words to them today — they'll have meaning when they're said.

They'll be happier if you say them now, they can't hear them when they're dead.

Celebrating 25th Anniversary

Northshore Shopping Center, Peabody, opened in August, 1958. At that time, it was one of the largest in the country with 870,000 square feet of shopping space and 8,000 car parking.

In the original Market Survey, prepared in 1955 by Homer Hoyt Association, Washington, D.C. it was stated, "Northshore has access from every side. If one were to set forth the ideal specifications for a shopping center location, the Peabody site would satisfy every requirement." The Center has seven entrances and exits.

At its opening, Northshore was anchored by Jordan Marsh Company, Filene's and Newberry's and listed the foremost retailers in the nation in its roster of tenants.

In 1963, a Twin Cinema and Bowling Lanes by General Cinema was added in a facility covering 101,000 square feet.

In 1964, Jordan Marsh Company added 72,000 square feet of shopping area and Sears joined the Center in a new store consisting of 42,000 square feet.

In 1969, another new complex was added to bring Almy's, Casual Corner and Lane Bryant to this market, increasing the shopping space to 1,200,000 square feet.

In 1976, the larger theater was split, giving Northshore a total of three separate Cinemas. Bookends and Radio Shack were two new stores opened in the 13,600 square foot Mini-Mall.

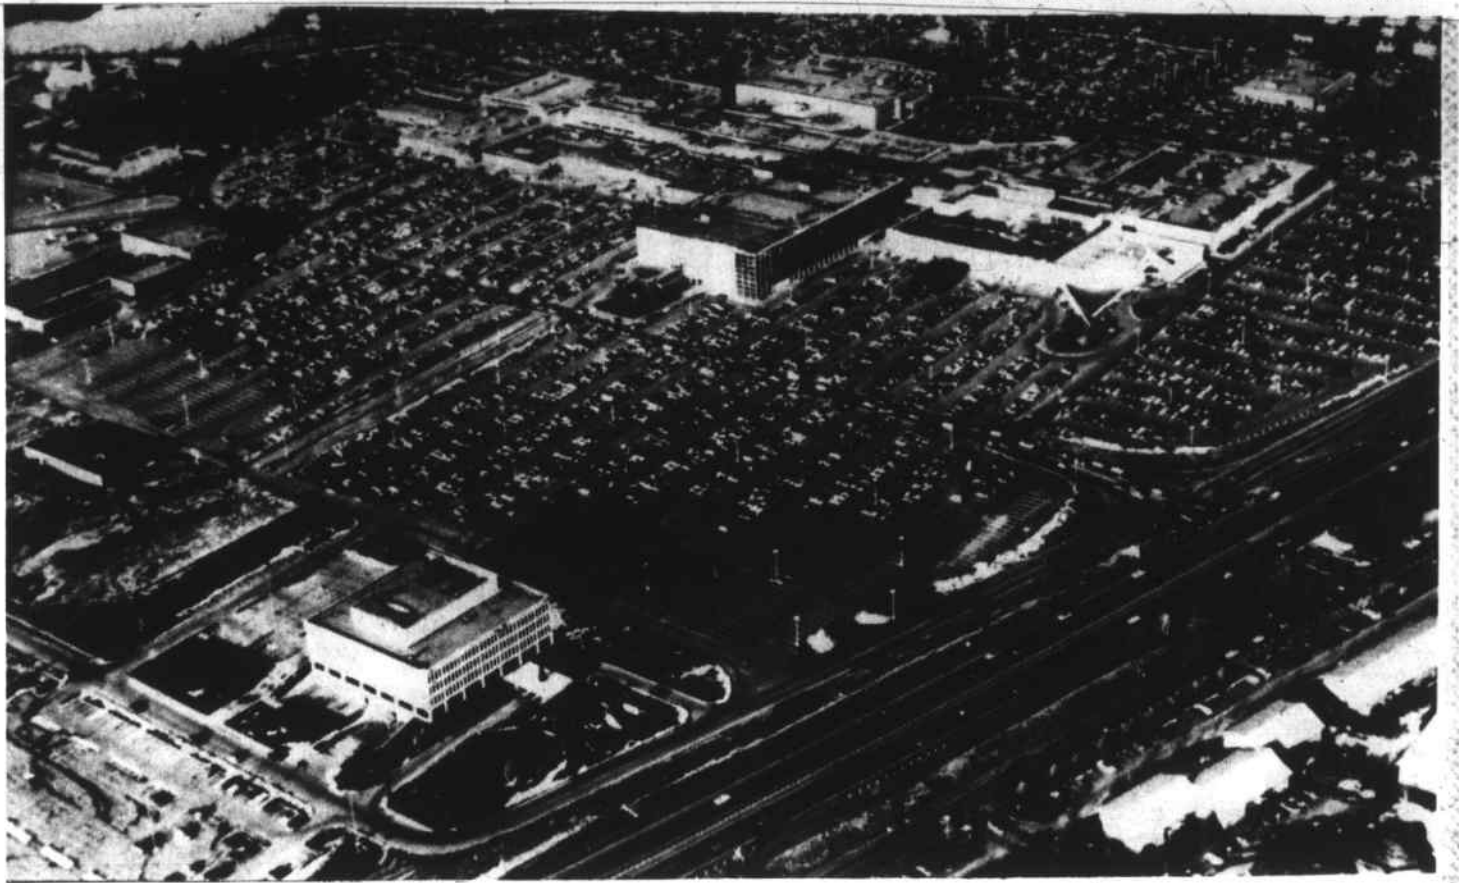

On February 21, 1977, Sears Roebuck opened with a 204,000 square foot full line department store and a separate 26,000 square foot Car Service Center. The remainder of the Mini-Mall, adjacent to the Sears main mall entrance, was leased to Musicland, Pennyworth's and Sterling Optical. In addition, Toys-R-Us leased the former Sears building and a Gloria Stevens Figure Salon located in the former auditorium near the administrative offices, lower level. Also in 1977 Northshore commenced construction of a climate-controlled mall, with an additional 20,000 square feet of specialty store space in the main plaza area to bring the shopping center to 1,400,000 square feet with 7,600 car parking spaces.

In 1983, three new tenants, Westwood Family Dental Center, Nantucket Sound and New England Telephone Service Center joined the Northshore family.

Northshore is developed, owned and operated by Allied Stores Corporation, New York. The original Center was designed by John Graham and Company, Inc., Architects and Engineers. Expansion and enclosing was designed by Sumner Schein, Architect, Boston.

Demographic studies show that within a 10 mile radius of Northshore, there is a population of approximately 518,000 people. Northshore is situated on the northern segment of Route 128, known as the Golden Circle. The area has shown a steady growth for the past 20 years and the economy is supported by a wide range of industry and businesses, predominantly white collar. There is a large influx of summer residents and tourists lured by the excellent beaches and historic meccas of Salem, Beverly, Marblehead, Gloucester, Rockport, etc.

The Northshore Shopping Center continues to attract large crowds subject of words, here's a non-word word that appeared in several editions of the Merriam-Webster dictionary: "dord." It first appeared in 1934 as a joke on the public, after an editor for the dictionary accidentally discovered a slip of paper containing the abbreviation for the word "density" ("D. or d. Density") on a stack of papers that was being edited for an edition of the dictionary. This linguist joined the first four letters together, formed the word "dord," then added a noun to it. "Dord" appeared in the second 1934 edition of the dictionary, on page 771, between the words

"Dorcopsis" and "dore": "Dord, n. Physics & Chem. Density." Eventually the word was eliminated when new editors took over the dictionary.

The New Yorker is well known for publishing amusing mixed metaphors that are either spoken or printed across the U.S. under an item called "Block That Metaphor." Ernest Sutherland Bates and Alan Williams, in their literary collaboration, "American Hurly-Burly," came up with a corker. It was spoken by Republican campaign manager John Daniel Miller Hamilton, in July of 1936, while responding to claims that the Republican party was anti-Semitic: "There is not an iota of truth in such a thing, and it is a deliberate attempt by those other people to throw a dust cloud when they know their ship is sinking. We have a red herring in every campaign, and apparently this is the first such attempt."

Ten years before the bombing of Pearl Harbor, the following question appeared on the final exam taken by students at the Japanese Naval Academy: "How would you carry out a surprise attack on Pearl Harbor?" Astonishingly, this query remained on the exam every year until the beginning of the war in the Pacific. Quincy Howe, who discovered this fact and included it in his book, "Ashes of Victory: World War II and Its Aftermath," had no evidence to conclude, however, that any of the Japanese naval commanders involved in the bombing of Pearl had used the suggestions offered by the Japanese naval students.

"Webster's Guide to American History" notes that the following inscription was found at Verdun, France: "Austin White, Chicago, Ill., 1918; Austin White, Chicago, Ill., 1945; This is the last time I want to write my name here." Obviously Austin White was an American soldier who had grown tired of fighting battles in Verdun, France.

Mystic Seaport celebration

At Mystic Seaport's Chowder Celebration, October 8 to 10, visitors can enjoy three varieties of the classic New England dish in addition to the Seaport's usual fare of tall ships and nautical atmosphere.

Chowder will be sold from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. during the three-day Columbus Day weekend. Vendors in 19th-century costume will serve clam, fish, and corn chowder under tents on the banks of the Mystic River, where the Seaport's tall ships and fishing boats provide the perfect backdrop. Fresh cider from a barrel and hot coffee will also be available.

While visitors savor the chowder from Seamen's Inne, they will be entertained by sea chanteys and fiddle music along the waterfront. The buildings in the Seaport's 19th-century village will be draped with traditional red, white and blue bunting to add to the holiday atmosphere.

On the Grand Banks fishing schooner L.A. Dunton, which is moored nearby, Seaport staff demonstrate fisheries skills — trawl setting, dory rowing, and cod splitting.

During the weekend celebration, and every day, craftspeople and interpreters in the village area demonstrate maritime trades such as ship carving, boat building, and sailors' arts. Domestic skills such as weaving and fireplace cooking are also demonstrated daily.

Costumed roleplayers often stroll the Seaport's streets in the costume of the last century, speaking and acting like townspeople of days gone by.

The 1908 steamboat Sabino will make half-hour cruises between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. daily, giving passengers a unique view of the activities onshore.

Not for academics only

Where could a working journalist examine Alistair Cooke's notes taken at Robert Kennedy's side as he lay mortally wounded, or scrutinize Dan Rather's first notes scribbled while hearing of the assassination attempt on President Reagan? Where could a fifth-grader studying civil rights clutch the original handwritten copy of

Martin Luther King, Jr.'s "Shattered Dreams" sermon? And where could a budding actor grip a genuine Oscar in one fist and Fred Astaire's dance shoes in the other?

The Twentieth Century Archives, created in 1963, at Boston University's Mugar Memorial Library, contains the papers and memorabilia of more than 1,000 contemporary figures in 20th century literature, film, theatre, journalism, public affairs, music, and poetry. The catalogued Archives include notebooks, letters, photographs, manuscripts, journals, and more.

Help Wanted

After a successful stay last year in the courtyard of the New England Shopping Center in Saugus, Santa Claus has decided to return in 1983.

Santa's Marketplace is a unique collective concept which will once again feature New England's finest craftspeople, mini-shops, Mrs. Claus' Kitchen and other festive happenings.

Santa's Marketplace is looking for other talented artisans and craftspeople to display their wares in the courtyard of the New England Shopping Center.

If you have a talent or something that might fit nicely into Santa's Marketplace, contact Patti Crooks at the Center (233-0931).

ANTIQUES SHOW

Maritime Society Antiques

The fifth annual Custom House Maritime Museum Antiques Show will be held at the National Guard Armory, Low Street, Newburyport, October 14, 15 and 16. Proceeds from the show will benefit the Custom House Maritime Museum in Newburyport.

Some thirty high-quality antiques dealers from all over the Northeast will exhibit in the show.

In addition to the dealer exhibits, the show will feature a special loan exhibit, "Scythe, Saddle, and Stack: Haying in the Salt Marsh". This exhibit will include artifacts, photographs, and paintings of the salt marsh haying industry as it was practiced in the Newburyport area from the seventeenth century into the twentieth, before it was mechanized.

The show is open Saturday, October 15, from Noon to 9 PM and Sunday, October 16, from Noon to 6 PM. Admission is $3 per person per day. Refreshments will be available from some of Newburyport's finest restaurants, and a cash bar will be open. The catalog may be purchased for $4 at the show, or by writing or telephoning the Maritime Society (462-8681).

From Victorian Winchester to Maritime Newburyport, from the 20th century to Santa's help wanted sign, COMING ATTRACTIONS has something for everyone. However, we do miss a few grand times. If you know of an event of interest to all, write, care of this local newspaper and tell us all about it. We enjoy and look forward to just about anything.
